ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT

It's with great pride that I introduce you BUSINESSMED's Activity Report for 2017 drawing an overview of a year which has been rich in activities and in pursuit of the objectives established by its members.

Since 2010, most of the South Mediterranean countries are going through a crisis. Egypt, Syria, Palestine, Tunisia, Cyrus, Greece and other countries are suffering from it; this crisis has affected all neighbouring countries. Because of the Arab Spring, most countries are affected, closely or remotely, but thanks to BUSINESSMED, businessmen discuss it, meet often and claim the support and involvement of the Northern Mediterranean countries.

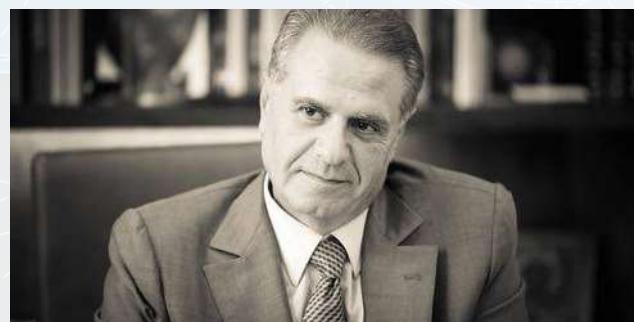

The Mediterranean is now a well-established reality in Europe and the Arab world; it carries the symbiosis of two complementary worlds, of an economic area, whose interaction is a source of prosperity, peace and progress for all countries of the region.

In this perspective, we believe that BUSINESSMED has a key role to play in shaping this future, and that it is through the private sector that we will conceive and execute it. The trade and economic integration cannot do without a dialogue between employer's organizations and public authorities. Hence the importance, in the eyes of BUSINESSMED, of pooling the voices of different confederations in each Mediterranean Partner Country.

But, to make our countries an emerging economy and a growth pole of the future, it's necessary to put them without delay on the path to economic recovery. In the short and medium term, the objectives of our economic policy must redress macroeconomic imbalances and restore growth, accelerate economic reforms and reinforce solidarity and social inclusion, and this requires the reinforcement of the relationship between businessmen of both sides to find investment opportunities.

A strong involvement of the private sector is an absolute prerequisite for the Euro-Mediterranean project. Successful experiences of projects UNIMED 1 and 2, invest in MED and EUROMED INVEST successively managed by BUSINESSMED, show that we can trust it to concretely facilitate the Euro-Mediterranean integration.

On the basis of these projects, a new step in strengthening corporate organizations of Mediterranean partners should be launched as soon as possible, focusing on strengthening sectoral and local organizations that provide daily assistance to associated companies.

And this in the hope that the implementation of the objectives of the Barcelona Process, now the Union for the Mediterranean, that the integration of countries of the North and South, that the establishing of an economic climate based on the promotion of the private sector and the strengthening of innovation capabilities and social dialogue will constitute one of the pillars that will allow us optimum integration in the global economy and produce a better quality of life for future generations."

BUSINESSMED's President

MOT DU PRESIDENT

C'est avec grande fierté que je vous présente le Rapport d'Activités de BUSINESSMED pour l'année 2017 qui dresse le bilan d'une année intense à plus d'un titre dans la poursuite des objectifs fixés par ses membres.

Depuis 2010, la plupart des pays Méditerranéens du Sud passent par une crise. L'Egypte, la Syrie, la Palestine, la Tunisie, Chypre, la Grèce, et le reste des pays en souffrent, cette crise a affecté tous les pays voisins. Suite au contexte du Printemps arabe, la majorité des pays sont touchés de loin ou de près, mais grâce à BUSINESSMED, les hommes d'affaires en discutent, se réunissent assez souvent et réclament le soutien et l'implication du Nord de la Méditerranée.

La Méditerranée est aujourd'hui une réalité bien ancrée en Europe et dans le monde Arabe, elle réalise la symbiose de deux mondes complémentaires, d'un espace économique dont l'interaction est source de prospérité, de paix et de progrès pour tous les pays de la région.

Dans cette perspective, nous croyons que BUSINESSMED a un rôle capital à jouer dans la formation de ce devenir et que c'est grâce au secteur privé que nous allons le concevoir et l'exécuter. L'intégration commerciale et économique ne peut se passer d'un dialogue entre les organismes patronaux et les pouvoirs publics. D'où l'importance, aux yeux de BUSINESSMED, de mettre en commun la voix des différentes confédérations dans chaque Pays Partenaire Méditerranéen.

Mais, pour faire de nos pays une économie émergente de demain et un pôle de croissance, il est nécessaire de le mettre sans plus tarder sur la voie du redressement économique.

A court et moyen termes, les objectifs de notre politique économique doivent corriger les déséquilibres macroéconomiques, relancer la croissance, accélérer les réformes économiques et renforcer la solidarité et l'inclusion sociale et pour cela il faut renforcer la relation entre les hommes d'affaires des deux rives pour trouver des opportunités d'investissement

La forte implication du secteur privé est une condition sine qua non du succès du projet euro-méditerranéen.

Les expériences réussies des projets UNIMED 1 et 2, ainsi que d'Invest in MED et EUROMED INVEST successivement gérés par BUSINESSMED, montrent que l'on peut lui faire confiance pour faciliter concrètement l'intégration euro-méditerranéenne.

Sur la base de ces projets, une nouvelle étape dans le renforcement des organisations d'entreprises des partenaires méditerranéens devrait être lancée dès que possible, en se concentrant sur le renforcement des organisations sectorielles et locales qui fournissent une assistance quotidienne aux entreprises associées,

Et ce dans l'espoir que la mise en œuvre des objectifs du Processus de Barcelone aujourd'hui Union pour la Méditerranée, que l'intégration des pays du Sud et du Nord, que l'instauration d'un climat économique basé sur la promotion du secteur privé et du renforcement des capacités d'innovation et du dialogue social constitueront, les piliers qui nous permettront une intégration optimale dans l'économie mondiale mais aussi de meilleures conditions de vie pour les générations futures. »

EDITORIAL BY BUSINESSMED'S SECRETARY GENERAL

One year more has elapsed in the life of our Union, and thanks to your support, BUSINESSMED has become more visible, more present and a true reference of the dynamic private sector on both shores of our Mediterranean.

I would like to extend my thanks to President Jaques Jean SARRAF, Vice-President Mrs. Saida Neghza and Vice-President Mr. Alberto Baban, as well as to all Presidents of the Confederations for their confidence over this mandate.

The General Secretariat of BUSINESSMED has put in place the necessary tools to increase the already powerful voice of the Mediterranean Countries. From surveys, to position taking and discussion process, to high-level meetings, round tables and conferences and of course professionally conveyed press releases.

This voice was accompanied by a multitude of services offered to our members. Access to funding, sector studies, technology transfer initiatives, active participation in projects co-financed by the European Commission.

We have spared no effort to provide a platform for our members to help them grow and become more international.

Over the past years, much has been done. Our growth has not only stopped at our activities.

In 3 years we have accomplished and re-established the Organization's structure, for which the majority of the organizations present and especially the former Presidents believed. We visited several members in their own country; we organized high-level meetings in several Mediterranean Countries such as Algeria where more than 500 businessmen were present, and similarly in Italy, with the euro-mediterranean forum. Not to mention the activities related to SOLID project which gave a powerful voice to the employers confederations.

We have revisited and re-structured the communication policy, the visibility and services offered to our members, thanks to SOLID project which finances the secretariat and which plays an essential role in the life of the Union, and all this once again in order to unify and strengthen our partnership across the region.

We hope to count on the support of our partner countries, which are members of the same Sea, in a common goal of a better Mare Nostrum.

Finally, while reiterating my devotion, I wish you a good reading of this annual activity report (2017).

EDITORIAL PAR LA SECRETAIRE GENERALE DE BUSINESSMED

Un an de plus s'est écoulé dans la vie de notre Union, et grâce à votre soutien, BUSINESSMED est devenue plus visible, plus présente et devient ainsi la vraie référence du secteur privé sur les deux rives de notre Méditerranée.

J'adresse mes paroles au président M. Jaques Jean SARRAF, à la Vice-Présidente Mme. Saida Neghza et au Vice-Président Mr. Alberto Baban, ainsi qu'à tous les présidents des Confédérations pour la confiance qu'ils ont accordée à notre chère Organisation pendant ce dernier mandat.

Le Secrétariat Général de BUSINESSMED a mis en place les outils nécessaires pour faire entendre la voix de la Méditerranée. D'enquêtes de masse, à des prises de positions, en passant par des réunions de haut niveau, des tables rondes et des conférences et bien sûr des communiqués de presse professionnellement véhiculés.

Cette voix a été accompagnée par une multitude de services à nos membres. De l'accès au financement, aux études sectorielles, aux initiatives de transfert de technologie, à la participation active aux projets cofinancés par la Commission Européenne.

Nous n'avons épargné aucun effort pour assurer une plateforme à nos membres et ainsi les aider à croître et à s'internationaliser.

Durant l'année écoulée, beaucoup a été fait. Notre croissance ne s'est pas seulement arrêtée à nos activités.

En 3 ans nous avons accompli et remis en place cette structure qui est chère à notre cœur depuis sa création, en laquelle la majorité des organisations présentes et surtout les anciens Présidents ont cru.

Nous avons visité plusieurs membres dans leur propre pays pour leur faire croire de nouveau en cette structure ; nous avons organisé des rencontres de hauts niveaux dans plusieurs pays tel que l'Algérie où plus de 500 hommes d'affaires étaient présents, pareillement en Italie avec le forum Euro-Méditerranéen et les différentes activités organisées dans le cadre du projet SOLID.

Nous avons revisité et rajeuni la politique de communication, de visibilité, de services à nos membres, grâce au projet SOLID qui finance le secrétariat et qui joue un rôle essentiel dans nos structures et tout cela encore une fois dans le but de solidifier et unir notre partenariat à travers la région.

Nous espérons pouvoir compter sur le soutien de nos pays partenaires, membres d'une seule et même Mer, dans notre objectif d'une meilleure Mare Nostrum.

Enfin, tout en vous réitérant ma dévotion, je vous souhaite une bonne lecture de ce rapport annuel d'activités (2017).

A stronger and more united Maghreb Addressing common challenges European Parliament

Brussels, 7-8 December 2016

The Union of Mediterranean Confederations of Enterprises (BUSINESSMED), represented by its General Secretary, Mrs. Jihen Boutiba Mrad, took part in the framework of the European Parliament consultations in the Conference "A stronger and more united Maghreb: addressing common challenges", organized by the Group S&D on December 7th and 8th 2016.

The conference brought together the main actors of the Eu-Maghreb debate on a political, financial and institutional level. Among them, the Maghreb Union of Employers (MSTP), the Maghreb Bank for Investment and Foreign Trade (BMICE), the Institute of funding of the development of the Arab Maghreb (IFID), the Social and Economic National Council of Algeria (CNES), the Arab Trade Union Confederation (ATUC), the Maghreb Coordination of Human Rights Organizations as well as the EU-Morocco Joint Parliamentary Committee.

Recalling that Maghreb countries have shown a new impetus toward a closer cooperation and recognizing that the objectives in favor of socio-economic development, stability and democratic transformation at the national level will not be fully achieved without a deepening of relations between the countries of the region, this conference has been organized with the aim of launching a dialogue between European parliamentarians, political representatives and civil society of the Maghreb.

During her speech, the General Secretary of BUSINESSMED, Mrs. Jihen Boutiba Mrad, highlighted the main obstacles to the integration as well as the major challenges to which the Maghreb must respond (democratic and socio-economic reforms, corruption, deterioration of the environment and climate change), raising also the main axes of cooperation between the EU and the Maghreb. Additionally, she called for a major support to the private sector, in particular through the creation of employment, structural reforms in the field of education and vocational training and new measures aiming at encouraging youth and women entrepreneurship through the access to financing.

This conference was for BUSINESSMED the opportunity to respond positively to the initiatives of the reforms launched by the Southern Mediterranean Countries, in the belief that a stronger and more united Maghreb will be better able to address the common challenges - at regional and global level - such as an increased shared prosperity, the instability in the region of the Sahel, the migration or the prevention of radicalization and the terrorism.

Parlement Européen

L'Union Méditerranéenne des Confédérations d'Entreprises (BUSINESSMED), représentée par sa Secrétaire Générale, Mme. Jihen Boutiba Mrad, a pris part dans le cadre des consultations au Parlement Européen à la Conférence « Un Maghreb plus fort et plus uni : relever les défis communs », organisée par le Groupe S&D les 7 et 8 Décembre 2016.

Lors de son allocution, la Secrétaire Générale de BUSINESSMED, Mme. Jihen Boutiba Mrad, a souligné les principaux obstacles à l'intégration ainsi que les défis majeurs auquel le Maghreb doit répondre (réformes démocratiques et socio-économiques, corruption, détérioration de l'environnement et le changement climatique), en soulevant également les axes stratégiques de coopération entre l'UE et le Maghreb. Elle a par la suite fait appel à un soutien majeur au secteur privé, à travers la création d'emploi, les réformes structurelles en matière d'enseignement et de formation professionnelle et les nouvelles mesures visant à encourager l'entrepreneuriat des jeunes et des femmes, tout en développant l'esprit d'entreprise par le biais d'accès au financement.

Cette Conférence fut pour BUSINESSMED l'occasion de répondre positivement aux initiatives de réformes lancées par les Pays Sud de la Méditerranée, dans la conviction qu'un Maghreb plus fort et plus uni pourra mieux relever les défis communs - régionaux et globaux - tels qu'une prospérité partagée accrue, l'instabilité dans la région du Sahel, les migrations ou encore la prévention de la radicalisation et du terrorisme.

1st Workshop Social Dialogue and Local Authorities “Women Representativeness in leading positions”

Amman, October 03rd 2017

In the framework of SOLiD project, BUSINESSMED and the Jordan Chamber of Industry (JCI) held the 1st workshop on social dialogue and Jordan local Authorities entitled “Women Representativeness in leading positions” that took place in Amman, on October 03rd 2017.

Despite the female presence in the labour market and community life, women access to decision-making positions remains marginal, hence the relevance of the workshop that examined the factors impeding women leadership in economic, social and especially political terms.

The event involved a brainstorming on the challenges and constraints of women's leadership, sharing of experiences and best practices in order to locate the profile of elected or/ and senior women and track the potential of replication.

The added value of the activity lie in the reinforcement of exchanges between the employers and the local authorities on a crucial issue namely women empowerment and the access to leading positions. In this respect the social partners join forces in order to advocate for modern institutions that tackle discrimination and ensure social peace in the target country.

Amman, 03 Octobre 2017

Dans le cadre du projet SOLiD, BUSINESSMED et Jordan Chamber of Industry (JCI) ont tenu le 1er workshop Dialogue Social et Autorités Locales intitulé "Représentativité des Femmes dans des positions de leadership" et ce le 03 Octobre 2017, à Amman.

Malgré la présence féminine sur le marché du travail et dans la vie communautaire, l'accès des femmes à des postes décisionnels demeure marginal, d'où la pertinence de cet atelier dédié à l'examen des facteurs entravant le leadership féminin sur le plan économique, social et plus spécifiquement politique. L'événement a amorcé un brainstorming sur les défis et les contraintes du leadership des femmes. Ce fût une occasion de partager des expériences et des meilleures pratiques afin de dresser le profil des femmes élues et / ou leaders et d'évaluer le potentiel de réPLICATION.

La valeur ajoutée de l'activité réside dans le renforcement des échanges entre les employeurs et les autorités locales sur un enjeu crucial à savoir l'autonomisation des femmes et la facilitation de leur accès à des postes de responsabilité. Ainsi, les partenaires sociaux ont joints leurs forces pour plaider en faveur des institutions modernes qui luttent contre la discrimination et assurent la paix sociale dans le pays cible.

BUSINESSMED at the Union for the Mediterranean Social Dialogue Forum (UfM)

Brussels, October 10th-11th 2017

Social Partners (representatives from employers' and workers' organizations) from the Union for the Mediterranean (UfM), have gathered in bi-partite in Brussels, October 10th-11th, at the 3rd Union for the Mediterranean Social Dialogue Forum.

The meeting was aiming mainly to review the implementation of the « Social Dialogue Declaration » adopted in September 2016 by BusinessMed, BusinessEurope, The Arab Trade Union Confederation (ATUC), European Trade Union Confederation (ETUC) on the occasion of the 3rd Ministerial Conference on Employment and Work which was held in Jordan (Dead Sea, September 26th-27th 2016).

In more concrete terms, the social partners from both shores of the Mediterranean –convinced by the added value of an independent bi- and tripartite social dialogue which is effective for democracy, competitiveness and social development – have first examined the recent evolutions of the social dialogue in the region. The introductory report of the ILO showed that since 2010, this dialogue has stopped, has suffered or even regressed in the countries of the European Union (EU) due to the financial crisis and the policies of economic and social austerity that took place, while in the south of the Mediterranean, the after « Arab Spring » has brought reforms of institutions and/or functioning of the dialogue. Even if a « fragile recovery » of the social dialogue is perceptible since 2013, numerous challenges remain in the North and even more in a certain number of countries of the South that have seen undermining in the freedom of association.

The social partners then exchanged a series of best practices in the 4 domains covered by their declaration: Informal work; youth employment; capacity building as well as migration. They examined again the ways the partners are involved in the definition and the implementation of two other key subjects : The follow-up of the COP-21 and the decent work in global supply chains. In concluding their work, the Euromediterranean social partners (SP) have :

- Called the Ministers to, as they committed themselves in their « Union for the Mediterranean Ministerial Conference on Employment and Labour», « strengthen the capacity of social partner organizations and social dialogue bodies, and the culture of social dialogue, and develop sound social dialogue practices at company and sectoral level». The social partners call upon the authorities therefore, to fulfill their commitment;

- Insisted, while still recognizing the diversity of national contexts, on the necessity to convert the Ministerial Declaration as well as the Declaration of Social Dialogue into concrete actions, not only on the level of the « Euro-mediterranean» region, but also on national, regional, sectoral and even on firms level
- Agreed upon further developing the subject of migration – conscious of the economic and social as well as demographic evolutions, but also the situations of conflicts and wars that are producing increasing flows of migrants and refugees. These flows are often a challenge and a burden to the hosting countries and the countries of transit, as well as a source of tensions for certain labour markets; they fuel racist and xenophobic reactions, potentially compromising democracy. The social partners will discuss more specifically, as part of a specific work group, on the matters within their competences, including notably the integration in the labour market in the North as well as the South ;

- Spoke about the necessity to improve the exchanges between the social partners and governments on a series of subjects, due to, among other reasons, the next Ministerial Conference. The social partners consider in this respect, to examine on a deeper level matters related to the « future of labour» in order to better contribute to the current discussion with the ILO as well as the UfM on this theme ;
- Emphasized the necessity to improve the knowledge and the data relative to the Social Dialogue in the broad sense in the region (facts, numbers and good practice). In order to contribute to a better, more regular exchange of information, between governments and social partners – concerning good practice and the evolution of the Social Dialogue among others – the social partners of the region have agreed upon testing the idea of a joint elaboration of national analysis « countries data sheets» when relevant events take place, allowing therefore to improve the available data mainly in the countries of the South which are not covered by the Solid project (cfr. infra);
- Asked again the Employment and Labour Ministers as well as the UfM Secretariat to consider, in their next conference, implementing a «contact point or a permanent secretariat», responsible for collecting and disseminating the contributions of the social partners but to also to facilitate the cooperation and the exchanges between social partners and governments in the Mediterranean basin. This « contact point/secretariat » could also ensure enhancement and better visibility for the adopted texts. The partners will submit in this regard a working paper outlining :

The role of this Point of contact/ Secretariat, their upcoming initiative, the corresponding workload ;

- Welcome the presentation elaborated by the ATUC and BusinessMed on the progress of the « Pilot project for the promotion of social dialogue in the Southern Mediterranean Neighborhood» (called « SOLiD ») which has been launched in Jordan, Morocco and Tunisia. The social partners unanimously stand by the principle of the project « SOLiD II » aiming to strengthen the capacity of the actors of the Social Dialogue to extend the project to other countries of the South. They call therefore upon the Commission to look into the possibility of providing the necessary funds, while keeping in mind the lessons learned from the present project Solid ;

Finally, the social partners thank the European Commission for organizing the 3rd UfM Social Dialogue Forum and agree to hold the fourth edition of this forum at the latest one year after the fourth Ministerial Conference, which is currently scheduled for 2019. Alarmed by the difficulties that the issuing visas' procedures can cause for the movement of certain participants from the South to the countries of the EU, and in order to facilitate a better presence of their parts in the meeting of the UfM, the representatives from employers' and workers' organizations suggest hosting the meeting in a South Med Country which does not have these constraints.

BUSINESSMED ACTIVITIES 2017

BUSINESSMED au Forum du Dialogue Social de l'Union pour la Méditerranée (UpM)

Bruxelles, le 10-11 octobre 2017

Des partenaires sociaux (représentants des employeurs et des syndicats) de l'Union pour la Méditerranée (UpM), dont BUSINESSMED, se sont réunis en format bi-partite à Bruxelles, les 10-11 octobre, dans le cadre du 3ème Forum du Dialogue Social de l'Union pour la Méditerranée.

La rencontre visait notamment à faire le point sur la mise en œuvre de la « Déclaration sur le Dialogue Social » adoptée en septembre 2016 par BusinessMed, BusinessEurope, la Confédération Arabe des Syndicats (CAS) et la Confédération Européenne des Syndicats (CES) à l'occasion de la 3ème Conférence Ministérielle sur l'Emploi et le Travail qui s'est tenue en Jordanie (Mer Morte, 26-27 septembre 2016).

Plus concrètement, les partenaires sociaux des deux rives de la Méditerranée – convaincus de la valeur ajoutée d'un dialogue social bi- et tripartite indépendant et effectif pour la démocratie, la compétitivité et le développement social – se sont d'abord penchés sur les évolutions récentes du dialogue social dans la région. Le rapport introductif de l'OIT montrait qu'à partir de 2010, ce dialogue a marqué un temps d'arrêt, a souffert voire reculé dans les pays de l'Union européenne (UE) suite à la crise financière et aux politiques d'austérité économique et sociale mises en place, tandis qu'au sud de la Méditerranée, l'après « printemps arabe » a amené des réformes des institutions et/ou dans le fonctionnement du dialogue. Même si un « rétablissement fragile » du dialogue social est perceptible depuis 2013, de très nombreux défis demeurent au Nord et plus encore dans un certain nombre de pays du Sud qui connaissent des atteintes à la liberté d'association.

Les partenaires sociaux ont ensuite échangé sur une série de bonnes pratiques dans les 4 domaines couverts par leur Déclaration : le travail informel ; l'emploi des jeunes ; le développement des compétences ; ainsi que la migration. Ils ont encore examiné la manière dont les partenaires sociaux sont impliqués dans la définition et la mise en œuvre de deux autres sujets clés : le suivi de la COP-21 et le travail décent dans les chaînes de valeur mondiales (« global supply chains »).

En conclusion de leurs travaux, les partenaires sociaux (PS) euroméditerranéens ont :

- appelé les Ministres à, comme ils s'y sont engagés dans leur « Déclaration de la Conférence ministérielle sur l'emploi et le travail de l'UpM », « renforcer en particulier la capacité des organisations des partenaires sociaux et des organismes de dialogue social, ainsi que la culture du dialogue social, en développant des pratiques saines de dialogue aussi au niveau des entreprises et des secteurs ». Les partenaires sociaux appellent donc les autorités nationales à concrétiser cet engagement ;
- insisté, tout en reconnaissant la diversité des situations nationales, sur la nécessité de traduire tant la Déclaration Ministérielle que la Déclaration sur le Dialogue social en actions concrètes, non seulement au niveau de la région « euro-méditerranéenne », mais également aux niveaux national, régional, sectoriel et d'entreprise ;
- convenu d'approfondir le sujet de la migration - conscients des évolutions économiques et sociales ainsi que démographiques, mais aussi des situations de conflits et guerres qui engendrent des flux croissants de migrants et de réfugiés. Ces flux constituent souvent un défi et une charge pour les pays de transit et d'accueil, ainsi qu'une source de tension sur certains marchés du travail ; ils alimentent encore des réactions racistes et xénophobes mettant potentiellement en danger la démocratie. Les partenaires sociaux aborderont plus particulièrement, dans le cadre d'un groupe de travail spécifique, les aspects relevant de leurs compétences, à savoir notamment l'intégration sur le marché de l'emploi tant au Nord qu'au Sud. Le mandat et la composition de ce groupe de travail seront arrêtés dans les trois mois, de façon à ce que le groupe puisse se réunir et présenter un premier document de travail et de réflexion au second semestre 2018. Les partenaires sociaux demandent à la Commission de pouvoir au financement nécessaire au fonctionnement dudit groupe de travail ;

- relevé la nécessité d'améliorer les échanges entre partenaires sociaux et gouvernements sur une série de sujets, entre-autres en vue de la prochaine Conférence Ministérielle. Les partenaires sociaux envisagent dans cette optique d'examiner plus à fond les questions liées à « l'avenir du travail » aussi en vue de mieux participer à la discussion en cours au niveau notamment de l'OIT mais aussi de l'UpM concernant la thématique ;
- souligné la nécessité d'améliorer la connaissance et les données relatives au dialogue social au sens large dans la région (faits, chiffres et bonnes pratiques). Afin de contribuer à un meilleur échange d'informations, plus régulier, entre les gouvernements et les partenaires sociaux – entre autres sur l'évolution du dialogue social ou concernant des bonnes pratiques – les partenaires sociaux de la région conviennent de tester l'idée de l'élaboration conjointe au niveau national d'analyses/ « fiches pays » lorsque des évènements pertinents se présentent, permettant ainsi d'améliorer les données disponibles principalement dans les pays du Sud non couverts par le projet Solid (cfr infra);
- demandé encore aux Ministres de l'Emploi et du Travail ainsi qu'au Secrétariat de l'UpM d'envisager, lors de leur prochaine Conférence, la mise en place d'un «point de contact ou secrétariat permanent» chargé de collecter et diffuser les contributions des partenaires sociaux mais aussi de faciliter les échanges et coopérations entre partenaires sociaux et gouvernements dans le bassin méditerranéen. Ce « point de contact/secrétariat » pourrait aussi assurer une meilleure mise en valeur, une visibilité accrue des textes adoptés. Les partenaires soumettront à cet effet un document de travail précisant : le rôle attendu de ce point de contact/secrétariat ; leurs initiatives à venir ; la charge de travail correspondant ;

● accueilli favorablement la présentation faite par la CAS et BusinessMed de l'état d'avancement du « Projet pilote pour la promotion du dialogue social dans le voisinage sud de la Méditerranée » (dit « Solid ») qui porte principalement sur la Jordanie, le Maroc et la Tunisie. Les partenaires sociaux soutiennent unanimement le principe d'un projet « Solid II » visant à renforcer les capacités des acteurs du dialogue social et à élargir le projet à d'autres pays du Sud. Ils appellent donc la Commission à examiner la possibilité de consacrer les fonds nécessaires à cet effet, tout en tenant compte des leçons tirées du présent projet Solid.

Enfin, les partenaires sociaux remercient la Commission européenne d'avoir organisé le 3ème Forum du Dialogue Social de l'UpM et conviennent de tenir la quatrième édition de ce Forum au plus tard un an après la quatrième Conférence Ministérielle actuellement prévue en 2019. Alertés par les difficultés que les procédures de délivrance de visas peuvent entraîner pour les déplacements de certains participants du Sud vers les pays de l'UE, et en vue de faciliter une meilleure présence de leur part dans les réunions de l'UpM, les représentants des employeurs et des travailleurs suggèrent de privilégier des réunions dans les pays du Sud de la Méditerranée qui ne présentent pas ces contraintes.

Tunis, October 24th -25th 2017

The Regional Seminar chaired by the Director of SOLiD project Mr Mustapha Tlili brought together the social partners of the 3 target countries Tunisia, Morocco and Jordan namely the Employers' organizations represented by l'Union Tunisienne de l'Industrie de Commerce et de l'Artisanat (UTICA - Tunisia), la Confédération Générale des Entreprises de Maroc (CGEM - Morocco) and the Jordan Chamber of Industry (JCI - Jordan) on one hand, and the Trade Union Organizations represented by Union Générale Tunisienne de Travail (UGTT - Tunisia), Union Marocaine du Travail (UMT - Morocco) and the General Federation of Jordan Trade Unions (GFJTU - Jordan) from another hand as well as the Economic Social and Environmental Council ESEC - Morocco.

The ultimate goal of this event, jointly organized by BUSINESSMED and The ATUC, is the restitution of the main recommendations from employers' and Trade Unions' perspective on the Diagnosis report of social partners' perceptions towards social dialogue drafted by the project's experts. In this respect, the participants agreed on the need to enrich the diagnosis report by the diversification of the sources of information, an in depth analysis of the legislative framework and the inclusion of the national specificities and the transition to the regional aspect of social dialogue.

Besides the review of the diagnosis report, the experts initiated a debate on common issues between the regional social partners to be developed during SOLiD upcoming meetings leading to action plans component of the project's charter. Certain policy papers are basically inspired from sustainable development agenda 2030 namely: exclusion, climate change, poverty, vocational training, etc.

The Euro-Mediterranean Social Partners

DECLARATION ON SOCIAL DIALOGUE

Third Union for the Mediterranean Employment and Labour Ministerial Conference of 26 and 27 September in Jordan

Jordan, 26 September 2016

The Euro-Mediterranean Social Partners (hereafter, the Social Partners) welcome the 3rd Union for the Mediterranean (UfM) Ministerial Conference on Employment and Labour taking place in Jordan the 26 and 27 September. They value the exchange which took place between the Social Partners and Ministers before the Conference.

The Social Partners want to contribute positively to the process of setting up strong, independent and effective social dialogues in the 43 countries of the Union for the Mediterranean.

Being two neighbouring regions in the world, the European Union and the Southern Mediterranean region are inter-connected between themselves and impacted by broader trends and challenges of global scale.

In this respect, the Social Partners wish to highlight the particular importance of two global agendas in which they should be involved, namely:

- the COP 21 agreement follow-up, which implies a well-managed transition process and far-reaching transformations in global production and consumption patterns with major implications on labour markets;
- the multi-faceted discussions on Global Supply Chains, including the need to fully exploit their potential in terms of economic growth and employment, while progressing on the development of due diligence based on international frameworks and reducing deficits of decent work and labour rights.

This Declaration focuses on the issue of social dialogue and its importance to address employment and labour market challenges in the Euro-Mediterranean region.

The Social Partners are convinced that social dialogue has an important role to play to contribute to balanced policy-making and social policy that lead to social development, by making labour markets and social protection systems more efficient and adapted to new and changing economic and social realities.

Account should be taken of the fact that the two regions have been affected more than others by recent financial, economic and migration crises, and they experienced lately a relatively slow and fragile economic recovery compared to other world regions.

The Nobel Committee acclaimed example of Tunisia shows that social dialogue can also act as a stabilising political factor. In other countries, the social partners bring expertise and legitimacy based on their first-hand knowledge and experience of the world of work.

Social dialogue can take many forms such as advice and recommendations as part of consultations and tripartite arrangements, or such as autonomous bipartite negotiations, e.g. collective bargaining, resulting in solution-oriented and balanced policies. Social dialogue is also a worldwide recognised value, enshrined under the International Labour Organisation (ILO) constitution and European Union (EU) treaty.

There is no blueprint for a well-functioning social dialogue. Social dialogue arrangements reflect the different histories, and economic and political situations of different countries. However, some basic conditions are essential to allow that social dialogue is fruitful and effective. Essential prerequisites for social dialogue to develop are:

- i) the presence of a basic legal framework in line with ILO principles which provides for freedom of association and independence of the social partners;
- ii) the setting up of an enabling and democratic institutional and legal framework at national, regional and local level, allowing for proper and timely involvement of social partners in policy-making on matters which have a direct and/or indirect impact on employment. An appropriate legal framework can also support the further development of an autonomous bipartite dialogue between parties at the different levels of the economy (national, sectoral, regional and at company level);
- iii) measures to promote a culture of social dialogue, including the provision of mechanisms to develop self-regulation, social peace, and prevent and solve conflicts.

Membership and representativeness, as well as mandates and capacity to provide expertise and services to their members make the strength of social partners' organisations. However, where social partners' structures are weak, national public authorities' or international support is necessary to kick-start or step up their capacities. Depending on countries and needs, this may include financial, legal, analytical, institutional, and/or political support.

The Social Dialogue Forums organised in the context of the UfM should continue and aim to share information and good practices on the state-of-play of the social dialogues in UfM countries, and exchange views on present and future priorities.

The most important challenges for social partners, together with governments and policy-makers across the Euro-Mediterranean region, are to strengthen economic growth and competitiveness - as this will be crucial to achieve successful enterprises - decent employment creation, and social cohesion to reduce poverty, inequalities and discrimination.

The Social Partners from both regions wish to highlight four areas on which some learning and/or cooperation between the two regions may have added value:

- Informal work, the challenge is for governments to create enabling frameworks to integrate the informal sector into the formal economy and support jobs and businesses in the formal sector. This will boost tax and social security revenues and allow for fair competition between enterprises and between workers.
- Youth employment, the challenge is for governments and social partners to tackle the lack of job opportunities, the lack of certain key competences/ shortage of adequate skills, and to determine the terms of employment, including labour costs, with the aim of helping young people to enter and develop in the labour market, while respecting agreed social and labour rights, and fostering sustainable integration of young people in employment. Where this is not the case, young people may be confronted with scarring unemployment spells, or they may well find themselves stuck in a succession of short-term and/or limited-hours contracts due to a lack of other opportunities.
- Skills development, the challenge is to improve national education and training systems to ensure a better match between the content of education and training curricula, the way qualifications are designed, and labour market needs. Together with improved career advice, this will help increase the employability of graduates, thereby improving and shortening labour market transitions.
- Migration, the challenge is to manage south-south and south-north influx in a way that is feasible for both sending and receiving countries, and in line with growth and labour markets prospects. The refugee crisis has exacerbated the challenge when it comes to managing an unprecedented humanitarian crisis. Both aspects requires the close involvement of social partners to contribute to devise adequate solutions for all.

A number of ongoing initiatives have addressed these issues. Some project activities aiming to foster social dialogue in some countries in the Southern shore of the Mediterranean have started recently. In this respect, initiatives led by the UfM, the European Commission or other relevant actors aiming to reinforce the capacity of social partners' organizations in the Southern shore of the Mediterranean, are important. In the coming years, Social Partners will continue exploring the need for further activities to support further progress in social dialogue. Therefore, they welcome the Ministers' request to the Commission to consider providing the necessary resources.

The Social Partners welcome the Ministers' intent to convene the 4th UfM Conference on Employment and Labour in 2019. In the run up to this, they ask the European Commission and the UfM Co-Presidency and Secretariat to take the necessary steps to hold a Euro-Mediterranean Social Dialogue Forum in 2017 or in 2018.

Union for the Mediterranean Ministerial Conference on Employment and Labour (Jordan, 27 September 2016)

Declaration

1. The Employment and Labour Ministers of the Union for the Mediterranean (UfM) gathered at their third Ministerial Conference at the Dead Sea in Jordan on 26 and 27 September 2016. The Conference was hosted by the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan and co-chaired by H.E. Ali AL-Ghezawi, Jordan's Minister for Labour, and H.E. Marianne Thyssen, Commissioner for Employment, Social Affairs, Skills and Labour Mobility, for the European Union, in the presence of UfM Secretary-General H.E. Fathallah Sijilmassi.
2. The Conference followed on from similar conferences held in Marrakech in 2008 and Brussels in 2010, which had established cooperation on employment and labour as a means of developing a genuine employment and social dimension within the UfM. At the previous conferences, the Ministers undertook to work together and learn from each other on employment, employability, and decent work,¹ and to involve all relevant stakeholders in this cooperation, in particular public authorities and social partners.
3. The Ministers reviewed employment and labour developments in the UfM partner countries, including the legacy of the economic and financial crisis and the impact of the current and previous refugee crises over the past decades. The Ministers took note of the Europe 2020 strategy for smart, sustainable and inclusive growth and highlighted the lessons arising from the policies for growth and jobs developed by the EU and its Member States within the framework of 'European Semester' coordination and from the EU's experience in promoting social dialogue.
4. In view of the urgent need to address better the pressing challenges in the region, in particular in the southern Mediterranean countries, the Ministers called for all stakeholders to be mobilised and the best use to be made of policies at all levels. They welcomed the efforts being made in several countries to design and implement comprehensive employment strategies. They insisted on the need to ensure coherence between economic, employment and social policies, and agreed to give fresh impetus to UfM cooperation on employment and labour.
5. At the beginning of the Conference, the Ministers consulted with high-level representatives of social partner organisations from both shores of the Mediterranean. They underlined the crucial importance of well-functioning and effective social dialogue, both tripartite and bipartite, to address growth and employment-related challenges more effectively and contribute to competitiveness, social progress and democracy.

6. The Ministers welcomed the joint "Declaration on Social Dialogue" of the Social Partners and highlighted in particular their call for strengthening social dialogue in the region and further involving social partners in the design and implementation of economic, employment and social policies.
7. Building on the preparatory work undertaken ahead of the Conference² by representatives of ministries and social partners, with the support of the European Commission, the Ministers focused in particular on the specific employment challenges in the southern Mediterranean countries.
8. While acknowledging the diversity of national situations in these countries, the Ministers highlighted structural challenges such as the low rate of labour participation and the high rate of structural unemployment; the scale of informal employment and low quality jobs; the rapid growth of the population, the high proportion of young people entering the labour market, and the persisting migration pressure due to the lack of job opportunities and inequalities of development; the impediments that prevent promising small enterprises from growing and limit job creation in the formal private sector; the weaknesses of the education and training systems and of the school-to-work transition; the high exposure of young people and women to unemployment, precariousness and social discontent; and the persistence of poverty and inequality.
9. The Ministers also noted that several countries in the region are confronted with instability or the effects of instability in their neighbourhood. In particular, the arrival of large numbers of migrants and refugees puts pressure on local labour markets, reinforces the informal economy and represents a heavy burden for the host countries.
10. The Ministers thanked the UfM Secretariat for its contribution to implementing the UfM framework action plan on employment, coordination among donors and enhancing policy dialogue by labelling and promoting cooperation projects in the area of youth employability and inclusive growth, under its Med4Jobsintegrated regional programme.
11. The Ministers highlighted the need to take action in response to the recent commitments by the United Nations (UN) and the International Labour Organisation (ILO) to sustainable development and the promotion of employment and decent work, including the transition from the informal economy to formal employment.³ They welcomed the ILO's 2019 Centenary Future of Work initiative and highlighted their commitment to contributing to this global in-depth discussion on the future of work. They also welcomed the ILO Conclusions on decent work in global supply chains⁴ and the efforts made by public authorities, the private sector, social partners and civil society organisations to promote responsible supply chains. In this respect, European Ministers recalled the Council Conclusions of 12 May 2016 on the EU and Responsible Global Value Chains.⁵

12. The Ministers welcomed the work of the UN and the ILO on addressing the labour market challenges related to refugees, migrants and workers directly affected by war and protracted conflicts in the region.
13. Against this background, and taking account of the lessons drawn from international experience, the Ministers agreed on policy orientations to be implemented at national level in relation to employment and social dialogue with a focus on the southern Mediterranean region, and on concrete steps to foster cooperation within the UfM on employment and labour.

I. Policy orientations for improving employment and labour

14. The Ministers recommend that national authorities develop comprehensive strategies for employment, employability and decent work for all, both women and men, on the basis of the following overarching principles:
 - a holistic, integrated policy approach to labour demand, supply and matching to ensure coherence and enable the mobilisation of all relevant institutions and partners (public and private);
 - the promotion of a well-functioning and effective social dialogue, both tripartite and bipartite, involving social partners in the design and implementation of economic, employment and social policies;
 - an emphasis on the objectives of combating poverty and discrimination, and promoting inclusion and equal opportunities in the respective national labour markets, with specific attention to promoting gender equality within all employment-related measures and initiatives;
 - the focus on reducing inequalities at all levels, especially income inequalities, which harm economic growth;

³ In particular, UN Agenda 2030 for Sustainable Development, the ILO Conclusions on decent work in global supply chains, and the ILO Recommendation No 204 concerning the transition from the informal to the formal economy.

7. Building on the preparatory work undertaken ahead of the Conference² by representatives of ministries and social partners, with the support of the European Commission, the Ministers focused in particular on the specific employment challenges in the southern Mediterranean countries.
8. While acknowledging the diversity of national situations in these countries, the Ministers highlighted structural challenges such as the low rate of labour participation and the high rate of structural unemployment; the scale of informal employment and low quality jobs; the rapid growth of the population, the high proportion of young people entering the labour market, and the persisting migration pressure due to the lack of job opportunities and inequalities of development; the impediments that prevent promising small enterprises from growing and limit job creation in the formal private sector; the weaknesses of the education and training systems and of the school-to-work transition; the high exposure of young people and women to unemployment, precariousness and social discontent; and the persistence of poverty and inequality.
9. The Ministers also noted that several countries in the region are confronted with instability or the effects of instability in their neighbourhood. In particular, the arrival of large numbers of migrants and refugees puts pressure on local labour markets, reinforces the informal economy and represents a heavy burden for the host countries.
10. The Ministers thanked the UfM Secretariat for its contribution to implementing the UfM framework action plan on employment, coordination among donors and enhancing policy dialogue by labelling and promoting cooperation projects in the area of youth employability and inclusive growth, under its Med4Jobsintegrated regional programme.
11. The Ministers highlighted the need to take action in response to the recent commitments by the United Nations (UN) and the International Labour Organisation (ILO) to sustainable development and the promotion of employment and decent work, including the transition from the informal

² Preparations for the Conference benefited from the outcome documents of two ad hoc work groups (on job creation and social dialogue) set up in 2015 by the UfM High Level Working Group on Employment and Labour and from the first lessons from the 'YouMatch' job-matching project for young people, implemented by GIZ in cooperation with the UfM Secretariat at the request of the German Federal Ministry for Development (BMZ).

(ii) An emphasis should also be put on supply-side measures. These have to be developed consistently with the demand-side policies, with a particular focus on young people and women.

- improving employability, with due attention to gender equality, through reform of and investment in education, higher education and training systems, including vocational education and training (VET), with an emphasis on promoting access and quality for all, preparing for labour market needs and improving the school-to-work transition;
- identifying current and future labour market needs to design appropriate strategies for developing skills, including entrepreneurial, green and digital skills;
- Involving social partners in the design and implementation of skills strategies, and encouraging both the public sector and private companies to contribute to improving employability by actively participating in the development of training programmes and in VET governance.

(iii) Labour market reforms, activation and employment services are key to a better matching of labour supply and demand.

- adapting labour law and labour market policies to provide companies and workers with greater flexibility and help those outside the labour market find a job, while also providing workers with decent working conditions and appropriate employment security; preventing the diversification of forms of employment (and work contracts) from resulting in labour market segmentation;
- developing active labour market policies, with a view to facilitating faster access or return to employment, self-employment and enterprise creation, through appropriate (re-)training, career guidance and counselling, placement measures, skills development and matching, employment incentives, and innovative employment services. Targeting such measures, as appropriate, to the particular needs of young people, women and the long-term unemployed;
- reinforcing the dialogue and cooperation between public and private employment services (e.g. regarding career orientation and job preparation); involving in this dialogue all relevant stakeholders including social partners, youth organisations and education and training providers; and
- expanding the capacities of local and regional actors to identify skill supply and demand at local level and design appropriate action for the better matching and use of skills in the local economic development context.

16. The Ministers recommend that national authorities actively support the transition from the informal economy to formal employment. While recognising the complexity and heterogeneity of the informal economy and of undeclared work, they stress their negative consequences as regards fair competition between companies and foregone fiscal revenues for the state and social security institutions, and as regards working conditions in particular for young people and women. The Ministers recall the ILO's efforts in this area and welcome the initiatives already undertaken within UfM countries, including those in which the challenge has grown dramatically due to the arrival of refugees.

17. The Ministers support ILO Recommendation No 204 which encourages ILO member states to draw up an action plan for the transition from informality to formality. European Ministers referred to the EU's 'Platform for Undeclared Work' cooperation initiative. In UfM countries with a more prevalent informal economy, relevant measures include enterprise development policies and the review of labour and tax laws, wage practices, working conditions and social security schemes, with a view to promoting decent work. Building on the experience of some countries, the Ministers call for efforts to improve means of measuring informality and include the production and collection of data on the informal economy in national systems of labour market information.

II. Policy orientations for promoting social dialogue

18. The Ministers acknowledge that social dialogue is key to democracy, good governance and to developing strategies that combine competitiveness and social progress. There is no blue print for social dialogue, as social dialogue arrangements and processes reflect countries' histories and the development of their respective political, economic and social structures.
19. The Ministers acknowledge that a well-functioning and effective social dialogue, both tripartite and bipartite, requires general framework conditions, as follows: first, an appropriate legal framework in line with ILO principles;⁶ second, sufficiently strong, representative and independent social partner organisations; third, a culture of social dialogue as a results-oriented win-win process; and fourth, institutional settings and procedures allowing for its functioning. To ensure that the full potential of social dialogue is realised. Ministers encourage all national authorities and all social partner organisations to take the requisite action to create such conditions.
20. In view of the weakness of bipartite social dialogue in a number of southern Mediterranean countries, the Ministers encourage initiatives aimed at addressing it, where necessary, in particular by strengthening the capacity of social partner organisations and social dialogue bodies, and the culture of social dialogue, and developing sound social dialogue practices at company and sectoral level.

21. The Ministers also acknowledge the positive contribution that social partners can make to improve the content of economic, employment and social policies, including through national dialogue on employment promotion, decent work for all, labour market reforms and the transition from the informal economy to formal employment.

III. Steps to foster UfM cooperation on employment and labour

22. The Ministers confirm their commitment to working together and learning from each other, in the UfM framework, on matters regarding employment, employability and decent work. They confirm that the UfM High-Level Working Group on Employment and Labour is tasked with coordinating this cooperation.
23. The Ministers value the quality of the work undertaken by ad hoc groups of officials and social partners to prepare the Conference, under the authority of the High-Level Working Group. They recognise that mobilising small working groups on specific topics, on a voluntary basis, has proven to be a successful way of developing the cooperation, and that such initiatives can be expanded to all interested UfM partner countries.
24. The Ministers invite the UfM partner countries to enhance networking and peer-to-peer learning between countries on key topics relating to employment and labour. Networks of experts and practitioners from public and private organisations, including social partners and other relevant stakeholders, can stimulate knowledge-sharing and peer-learning, for example on public and private employment services.
25. The Ministers take note of the Initiative on youth employment through vocational training in the Maghreb countries, initiated by the Luxembourg Presidency of the Council of the European Union in 2015, and look forward to its possible contribution to the UfM objectives on employment and labour.
26. The Ministers welcome the EU's financial support for the regional 'Pilot project for the Promotion of Social Dialogue in the Southern Mediterranean Neighbourhood' (implemented in Tunisia, Morocco and Jordan as priority countries but also including regional activities involving all countries of the Neighbourhood South region). They welcome the social partners' intention to hold an UfM Social Dialogue Forum in 2017/2018 and to discuss on that occasion the mid-term achievements of this social dialogue capacity-building project and its possible expansion to other UfM partner countries. They ask the omission to consider providing the necessary funds for this expansion in its financial planning decisions.
27. The Ministers invite the EU to continue its financial support for countries that host growing numbers of economic migrants to help them ensure the smooth functioning of their domestic labour markets, while providing the migrants with appropriate protection.

28. The Ministers take note of the European Union's efforts to help remove the obstacles to the Palestinian economic and social development and to promote employment opportunities in the region.
29. The Ministers call for employment and decent work objectives to be mainstreamed in all relevant UfM policies and cooperation initiatives, in particular in areas such as the blue economy, the digital economy, education, energy, environment and climate change, gender equality, industrial cooperation and research and innovation. They also invite those responsible for relevant UfM ministerial conferences and cooperation processes to consider employment and decent work objectives and impacts within their respective initiatives with a view to promoting appropriate synergies with UfM cooperation on employment and labour.
30. The Ministers call on the UfM Secretariat to continue its active contribution to improving the employment situation in the region to promote projects further in line with employment, employability and decent work priorities and to enhance, in cooperation with relevant actors, visibility, ownership and access to finance. Given the need to identify and address gaps in regional labour market programmes, the Ministers ask the Secretariat to set up and update a database of bilateral and regional cooperation projects on employment and labour taking into account information available in other existing databases. To this end, the Ministers agree to keep the Secretariat informed regularly of such projects on employment and labour.
31. The Ministers thank the European Training Foundation (ETF) for its policy analysis and support for the modernisation of VET systems and human capital development policies in the region, and invite ETF to continue its engagement.
32. The Ministers express their gratitude to the Government of Jordan for hosting the third Ministerial Conference on Employment and Labour and agree to convene the fourth Ministerial Conference in 2019.

Draft conclusions of the Social Dialogue Forum of the Union for the Mediterranean (UfM)

Brussels, 11 October 2017

1. Social partners (employer and trade union representatives) of the Union for the Mediterranean (UfM) met bilaterally on 10 and 11 October, as part of the 3rd Social Dialogue Forum of the Union for the Mediterranean.

2. The purpose of the meeting was in particular to review the implementation of the "Declaration on Social Dialogue" adopted in September 2016 by BusinessMed, BusinessEurope, the Arab Trade Union Confederation (ATUC) and the European Trade Union Confederation (ETUC) during the 3rd Employment and Labour Ministerial Conference, which was held in Jordan (Dead Sea, 26-27 September 2016).

3. More specifically, the social partners of both sides of the Mediterranean - convinced of the added value of an independent and effective bilateral and trilateral social dialogue for democracy, competitiveness and social development - first examined the recent developments of the social dialogue in Europe and in the countries of the South, on the basis of an introductory report by the ILO. The report shows that significant structural challenges remain in the North, and that for certain countries in the South experiencing violations of their right to the freedom of association, there is an even greater problem.

4. The social partners then discussed a range of good practices in the four areas covered by their Declaration: informal work, youth employment, skills development, and migration. They also examined the way in which the social partners are involved in the definition and the implementation of two other key subjects: COP21 follow-up and decent work in global value chains.

5. In concluding their work, the Euro-Mediterranean participants in particular:

- called on Ministers to fulfil their commitment in their "Declaration of the Employment and Labour Ministerial Conference", "to boost the capacity of social partners' organisations and of social dialogue organisations, as well as the culture of social dialogue, by developing sound dialogue practices both in companies and in sectors". The social partners therefore call on national authorities to deliver on this commitment;

- stressed, while recognising the different national circumstances, the need to consider how to translate both the Ministerial Declaration and the Declaration on Social Dialogue into practical measures, so as to respond to the realities and to create added value for the social partners not only in the "Euro-Mediterranean" region, but also at the national level in the member countries of the UfM;

- welcomed the presentation made by the ATUC and BusinessMed on the progress of the "Pilot project for the Promotion of Social Dialogue in the Southern Mediterranean Neighbourhood" (known as "Solid"), which primarily covers Jordan, Morocco and Tunisia. The social partners support the principle of a "Solid II" project intended to strengthen the capacities of social dialogue actors and to expand the project to other countries in the South, in particular with a view to improved awareness raising of good national practices based on the information provided by the national social partners. For this reason they are calling on the Commission to explore the possibility of allocating the funds required for this, while taking into account the lessons learnt from the current Solid project.

- 6. The participants also agreed to further examine - in accordance with the internal procedures specific to each organisation - several areas for follow-up mentioned during their work (such as: looking more deeply at the issue of migration, considering "the future of work", establishing a "point of contact", preparing for the fourth UfM Social Dialogue Forum, etc.). A more specific list will be drawn up following the internal consultations.

- 7. Finally, the social partners thank the European Commission for having organised the 3rd Social Dialogue Forum of the UfM. Having been informed of the difficulties that visa issuance procedures can cause for certain participants from the South travelling to the countries of the EU, and to facilitate greater attendance on their part at the meetings of the UfM, the employer and trade union representatives suggest adapting the application of the principle of rotation between meetings organised in European countries and southern Mediterranean countries on a case-by-case basis, by trying to prioritise, as far as possible, the holding of major fora/certain meetings in the countries of the South, and by taking into account the meaningful participation of the social partners from the North. Should meaningful attendance by Northern social partners not be expected, favouring meetings in the countries of the southern Mediterranean could be prioritised to allow for increased participation by the representatives of the South.

FOCUS

Projet de conclusions du Forum du Dialogue Social de l'Union pour la Méditerranée (UpM)

Bruxelles, le 11 octobre 2017

1. Des partenaires sociaux (représentants des employeurs et des syndicats) de l'Union pour la Méditerranée (UpM) se sont réunis en format bipartite à Bruxelles, les 10-11 octobre, dans le cadre du 3ème Forum du Dialogue Social de l'Union pour la Méditerranée.

2. La rencontre visait notamment à faire le point sur la mise en œuvre de la « Déclaration sur le Dialogue Social » adoptée en septembre 2016 par BusinessMed, BusinessEurope, la Confédération Arabe des Syndicats (CAS) et la Confédération Européenne des Syndicats (CES) à l'occasion de la 3ème Conférence Ministérielle sur l'Emploi et le Travail qui s'est tenue en Jordanie (Mer Morte, 26-27 septembre 2016).

3. Plus concrètement, les partenaires sociaux des deux rives de la Méditerranée – convaincus de la valeur ajoutée d'un dialogue social bi- et tripartite indépendant et effectif pour la démocratie, la compétitivité et le développement social – se sont d'abord penchés sur les évolutions récentes du dialogue social en Europe et dans les pays du sud, à la lumière d'un rapport introductif de l'OIT. Il en ressort que des défis importants d'ordre structurel demeurent au Nord et plus encore dans un certain nombre de pays du Sud qui connaissent des atteintes à la liberté d'association.

4. Les partenaires sociaux ont ensuite échangé sur une série de bonnes pratiques dans les 4 domaines couverts par leur Déclaration : le travail informel ; l'emploi des jeunes ; le développement des compétences ; ainsi que la migration. Ils ont encore examiné la manière dont les partenaires sociaux sont impliqués dans la définition et la mise en œuvre de deux autres sujets clés : le suivi de la COP-21 et le travail décent dans les chaînes de valeur mondiales (« global supply chains »).

5. En conclusion de leurs travaux, les participants euroméditerranéens ont notamment :

- appelé les Ministres à, comme ils s'y sont engagés dans leur « Déclaration de la Conférence ministérielle sur l'emploi et le travail de l'UpM », « renforcer en particulier la capacité des organisations des partenaires sociaux et des organismes de dialogue social, ainsi que la culture du dialogue social, en développant des pratiques saines de dialogue aussi au niveau des entreprises et des secteurs ». Les partenaires sociaux appellent donc les autorités nationales à concrétiser cet engagement ;

- insisté, tout en reconnaissant la diversité des situations nationales, sur la nécessité de considérer comment traduire tant la Déclaration Ministérielle que la Déclaration sur le Dialogue social en actions concrètes, de manière à répondre aux réalités et d'apporter une valeur ajoutée aux partenaires sociaux non seulement au niveau de la région « euro-méditerranéenne », mais également au niveau national dans les pays membres de l'UpM ;

- accueilli favorablement la présentation faite par la CAS et BusinessMed de l'état d'avancement du « Projet pilote pour la promotion du dialogue social dans le voisinage sud de la Méditerranée » (dit « Solid ») qui porte principalement sur la Jordanie, le Maroc et la Tunisie. Les partenaires sociaux soutiennent le principe d'un projet « Solid II » visant à renforcer les capacités des acteurs du dialogue social et à élargir le projet à d'autres pays du Sud, notamment en vue de mieux faire connaître les bonnes pratiques nationales sur base des informations fournies par les partenaires sociaux nationaux. Ils appellent donc la Commission à examiner la possibilité de consacrer les fonds nécessaires à cet effet, tout en tenant compte des leçons tirées du présent projet Solid.

6. Les participants ont encore convenu d'examiner plus avant – selon les procédures internes spécifiques à chaque organisation - plusieurs pistes de suivis qui ont été évoquées lors des travaux (telles que : approfondir le sujet de la migration ; examiner « l'avenir du travail » ; mettre en place un « point de contact » ; préparer le quatrième Forum du DS UpM ...). Une liste plus précise sera dressée à l'issue des consultations internes.

7. Enfin, les partenaires sociaux remercient la Commission européenne d'avoir organisé le 3ème Forum du Dialogue Social de l'UpM. Alertés par les difficultés que les procédures de délivrance de visas peuvent entraîner pour les déplacements de certains participants du Sud vers les pays de l'UE, et en vue de faciliter une meilleure présence de leur part dans les réunions de l'UpM, les représentants des employeurs et des travailleurs suggèrent d'adapter au cas par cas l'application du principe de la rotation entre des réunions organisées dans des pays européens, et des pays du sud de la Méditerranée, en essayant de privilégier la tenue des grands forums/ de certaines réunions dans les pays du sud, dans la mesure du possible, et en tenant compte de la participation significative des partenaires sociaux du Nord. Privilégier des réunions dans les pays du Sud de la Méditerranée pourrait être envisagé afin de permettre une participation accrue des représentants du Sud, si une présence significative des partenaires sociaux du Nord n'est pas escomptée.

Introduction

The promotion of private sector development and inclusive growth requires strong partnerships between government, the business community and civil society. Effective and transparent “reform coalitions” contribute to building capacity, strengthening the advocacy role of non-governmental organisations on reform priorities and informing the agenda of governments to improve the investment climate and foster innovation, entrepreneurship and competitiveness. Building institutional frameworks in which the private sector and other stakeholders can participate and effectively contribute to the decision-making process is essential to produce better policy outcomes. The effective and transparent exchange of information with non-governmental stakeholders is an essential component of a business-friendly environment and contributes to building mutual understanding, social consensus and maximise impact.

In the Middle East and North Africa (MENA), the level of organisation of business associations and trade unions varies significantly – just as the level and quality of public-private dialogue instances. While some countries enjoy strong, well-structured platforms for private sector representation and participation in policy-making, such participatory mechanisms are lacking, weak or poorly-designed in others. The private sector across the MENA region remains to a large extent fragmented and dispersed – with the large informal sector under-represented and trade unions often lacking cohesive force. The UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) also acknowledge the importance of building vibrant and systematic partnerships with the private sector and civil society, based on common principles, values and objectives, in order to mobilise critical resources to deliver on the SDG objectives and ensure the successful implementation of the post-2015 development agenda.

Partners and stakeholders of the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme (“the Programme”) have long pleaded for providing a structured and sustainable platform for public-private dialogue covering the variety of policy areas on which the OECD enjoys a well-established corpus of standards and best practices: investment, trade, innovation, SMEs and entrepreneurship (including women) and competitiveness policies at large.

The MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme was launched in 2005 at the request of Middle East and North African (MENA) governments. Participating economies include Algeria, Bahrain, Djibouti, Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Mauritania, Morocco, Oman, Palestinian Authority, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Tunisia, United Arab Emirates and Yemen.

The Programme supports reforms to mobilise investment, private sector development and entrepreneurship as driving forces for growth and employment in the region. To achieve its objective, the Programme adopts a horizontal approach of policy dialogue and consensus building, the exchange of experience and good practices, peer learning, and capacity building for the identification, implementation and monitoring of business climate reforms.

The Programme includes five regional working groups and networks: i) Working Group on Trade and Investment, ii) Working Group on SME Policies and Entrepreneurship, iii) Working Group on Corporate Governance and State-Owned Enterprises, iv) Business Integrity Network; v) Women’s Economic Empowerment Forum.

Objective

In order to achieve broad-based consensus on national development strategies, and create shared ownership of policy reforms aimed at improving the business environment and fostering inclusive growth, the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme will create a platform for public-private dialogue. The Programme will seek to expand consultative mechanisms both in terms of membership and substantive input. It will incorporate this platform within its working groups.

Integrating public-private dialogue within the Programme has a double goal:

- 1) Directly informing the policy dialogue and exchange of best practices conducted within the existing regional working groups and policy networks ; and
- 2) Taking stock of the state of private sector representation and models of participation in policy-making in MENA countries, and disseminating good practices.

In structuring public-private dialogue, the Programme will benefit from the OECD model of policy dialogue, involving two well-established networks representing the interests of the business community and social partners: the OECD Business and Industry Advisory Committee (BIAC) and Trade Union Advisory Committee (TUAC), each advancing a specific agenda to OECD Committee members and delegates in a constructive, open and regular dialogue.

Proposed activities

Institutionalizing public-private dialogue within the Programme will require the following steps:

1. Mapping exercise: A roster of business associations and trade unions will be created on a country basis to have diverse representation and include organisations that bring together larger and smaller businesses, representing different sectors, from larger, formal and well-structured entities to smaller business clubs, including youth and women business associations.
2. Scoping note (discussion paper): A scoping note will be prepared based on the mapping exercise. Additional consultations will take place with private sector associations in pilot countries (e.g. Egypt, Jordan, Morocco and Tunisia), each featuring specific models of private sector organisation, representation and participation in policy-making. The concept paper will:
 - a) Assess the current status of business associations and representation and dialogue mechanisms and compare models across the region.
 - b) Discuss priority areas affecting private sector development and social inclusion in the MENA region and advance a structured, coherent reform agenda, in relation to the Programme's regional working groups. Of particular relevance are barriers and priority actions required to enhancing the investment climate and levelling the playing field for businesses, fostering entrepreneurship and innovation, promoting regional competitiveness, good corporate governance standards and decent work conditions. For instance, potential areas for discussions include: increasing FDI spill-over effects to the local economies (in relation to Working Group 1), promoting SME linkages and clusters in high-growth sectors (Working Group 2) and applying standards of responsible business conduct in the MENA private sector (Working Group 3).
 - c) Identify good practices and successful examples of public-private dialogue from other regions.

3. Establishment of a regional platform for PPD: Such a platform would meet (at least) annually and contribute, building on different modes of consultation and operation, to the Programme's regional working groups operating, by:
- Providing the private sector's view on the policy areas covered and formulating high-level advice (in the form of position papers or joint statements) on reform priorities in MENA countries, such as (but not limited to): investment and trade liberalisation, entrepreneurship, innovation, women's economic empowerment, responsible business conduct, corporate governance and business integrity ;
 - Appointing delegates from the private sector to take an active part in working group meetings as well as in other technical or high-profile events organised in the context of the Programme's activities.

MENA-OECD Working Groups & Networks

4. Capacity-building to strengthen business associations' policy advocacy role and improve mechanisms for public-private collaboration: Private sector organisations need to be well-organised, structured and equipped to deliver on their policy advocacy role effectively and make their voices heard in the policy-making process. This entails robust knowledge of the technical dimensions of the issues at hand, of collaborative processes at all phases of the policy cycle, as well as general exposure to global economic debates (G20 and other economic fora). The Programme will provide capacity-building and training to improve the sophistication of private sector organisations and help them address existing gaps. The trainings will build on good practices from the MENA region and from the OECD, and will also facilitate networking and linkages between the organisations of different countries.

Proposed organisational structure

The MENA-OECD Business Advisory Board would consist of 20 members responsible for driving the overall direction of public-private dialogue within the Programme. Focused networks and task forces can support the substantive work in the form of position papers and joint statements

To participate in the Board, candidates will need to fulfil the following criteria:

- To be a recognised business leader from a MENA or an OECD country ;
- To be a partner, director, vice-president or CEO in the company ;
- Demonstrate leadership qualities through active participation and sponsorship of key projects and initiatives ;

The Board will include two co-chairs. In order to ensure a balanced board, the geographic location of Board members will be taken into account.

Calendar of activities

Partnerships

Strengthening public-private dialogue in the MENA region requires forging solid alliances and partnerships with regional organisations, academic and research institutions active in the area. Key institutions to be involved include the Center for International Private Enterprise (CIPE), the World Bank Group, or the League of Arab States.

Annex 1: Regional working groups and networks

The MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme is structured along three regional thematic Working Groups, bringing together government officials and stakeholders on the following policy areas:

- Investment and trade
- SME policy and entrepreneurship
- Corporate governance

1) Investment and Trade

International trade and investment are essential contributors to growth, development and economic well-being. At the global level, trade volumes grew less than 3% in the last three years and flows of foreign direct investment (FDI) remain 40% below their pre-crisis levels. In the MENA region, FDI inflows decreased by 50% between 2008 and 2014 though with significant differences across countries. Intra-regional trade and investment flows remain weak showing lack of integration and interconnectedness. Reforms in the MENA countries are taking place to foster the trade agenda and improve the investment legal and institutional frameworks. However, trade and investment, the twin and complementary engines for reviving the world economy and boosting regional integration, are still lagging behind.

1.1 Trade and investment policies

The interactions between trade and investment policies in the MENA region should be further explored with a view to ensure consistency between trade- and investment-related measures and to seek synergies to foster socio-economic impacts and inclusive productivity growth from a whole-of-government perspective.

Areas of work:

- Emphasise the need for coherent and harmonised trade and investment policies and frameworks (legal and institutional) to foster sustainable and inclusive growth using the OECD's updated Policy Framework for Investment (PFI).
- Focus on quality investment with impact on jobs and spill over effects on the local economy and territorial development.
- Target responsible investment through promotion of business integrity and responsible business conduct based on the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises (to which four MENA countries adhered). Strengthen the policy advocacy role of the private sector.

1.2 Participation in GVCs

International production, trade and investments are increasingly organised within global value chains (GVCs) where the different stages of the production process are located across different countries. This fragmentation highlights the importance of an ambitious complementary policy agenda to leverage engagement in GVCs into more inclusive growth and employment.

MENA countries should build sound business environment and productivity strategies to reduce barriers and costs of integrating into GVC. Some of these costs accrue at the border (e.g. import tariffs, costs related to customs inefficiencies or statutory restrictions on FDI) but many arise in domestic economies (e.g. administrative burdens, regulatory constraints on competition, inefficient infrastructure, skills gaps, poor quality and enforcement of competition law or deficiencies in the legal system in general). The Working Group will benefit from policy dialogue and the OECD comprehensive statistical and analytical work, shedding light on the scale, nature and consequences of international production sharing. Notably, it will build on the joint OECD-WTO Trade in Value-Added (TiVA) initiative which considers the value added by each country in the production of goods and services that are consumed worldwide.

Areas of work:

- Foster production and collection of trade and investment statistics based on international standards (e.g. the OECD Benchmark Definition of FDI).
- Progressively integrate MENA countries into the Trade in Value-Added (TiVA) initiative and map backward and forward linkages to measure value chain activity and design a regional value chain strategy.
- Develop extensions to statistical data used for TiVA to reveal the scale and channels of enterprise integration (in particular the MNEs-SMEs linkages) and the upstream and downstream contributions made by FDI, to orient policy options.

1.3 Trade and investment facilitation

To reignite global trade, there is a need to reduce unnecessary costs incurred by traders every time an import or export crosses a border. OECD estimates that trade costs could be reduced by up to 17.5% in some countries once measures in the WTO Trade Facilitation Agreement are fully implemented. In the same vein, there is ample room for easing restrictions on foreign investment, which is pivotal to global value chains.

Areas of work:

- Analyse the OECD Trade Facilitation Indicators for the 13 covered MENA countries and discuss areas of improvement at the regional level.
- Identify and assess ground-level obstacles and regulatory restrictions to investment (legal and administrative requirements, closed sectors, equity participation, local content, investment screening including for national security purposes, exchange control, personnel restrictions...). Include more MENA countries into the FDI Regulatory Restrictiveness Index and showcase the impact of lifting certain restrictions.
- Promote exchange of experiences between MENA and OECD investment promotion agencies to upgrade MENA IPAs and lift expertise.

1.4 Trade and investment agreements

MENA countries have signed more than 700 bilateral investment treaties and nearly 60 trade and investment-related agreements (including the Arab League Agreements, notably GAFTA and the Investment Agreement). At the global level, regional and mega-regional trade agreements with investment provisions are proliferating, contributing to the debate on improving the international investment regime for more coherence and co-operation. MENA countries should keep abreast on these developments as some are engaging in large and complex negotiations (e.g. the Deep and Comprehensive FTAs with the EU, the Tripartite Free Trade Area with Africa countries). In addition, since the regional uprisings, countries are also experiencing an increasing number of investor-State disputes (particularly Egypt and Algeria) which lessen investors' confidence, highlight the difficulties and the costs to handle these disputes, and question the approaches used to resolve investment disputes.

Questions at stake in the international debate and relevant for the region are: Will next-generation FTAs help to remove the artificial division between trade and investment? How much further can liberalisation of international investment be achieved through current agreements? What is the best way to ensure regional and bilateral agreements contribute to greater consistency in approaches to investment protection and dispute resolution? How can such agreements reflect the appearance of new actors in the international investment ecosystem, such as sovereign wealth funds, state-owned enterprises and SMEs? How can they contribute to more responsible and sustainable investments?

What can be done to respond to increased public and parliamentary interest in trade and investment negotiations?

Areas of work:

- Monitor international investment agreements and investor-State dispute settlement cases in the region.
- Support a regional policy dialogue on the international investment regime, build capacities of negotiators, enhance participation of MENA policy-makers in the OECD Freedom of Investment Conferences.
- Foster a concerted approach towards ways of promoting greater regional investment integration, including through enhanced co-operation with the Arab League and other regional organisations (Agadir Technical Unit, Union du Maghreb Arabe).

2) SME and Entrepreneurship

The development of a vibrant private sector is essential for the MENA region to build more diversified and robust economies and to address important challenges such as lack of employment opportunities, inequality and unbalanced territorial development. Micro, small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) and entrepreneurs are fundamental components of the private sector and are major sources of jobs, income and goods and services. SMEs and entrepreneurs can also drive productivity, competitiveness and innovation by introducing new ideas, new products and services and new business models.

Low rates of enterprise development in MENA show that much needs be done to foster entrepreneurship and SME growth. For example, enterprise creation, an important driver of jobs, is very low in the MENA region: less than one enterprise per 1000 working age people is created every year, compared to around five in OECD countries. The vast majority of enterprises are micro firms contributing little to formal employment, value added and productivity growth. This is because they mostly operate in traditional sectors and often engage in informal activities. In Morocco, Algeria, Jordan and Egypt, micro firms represent 98%, 96%, 90% and 85%, respectively, according to national data.

2.1 Improving the business environment for SMEs and entrepreneurs

A number of studies using firm level data and international sources such as the World Bank Enterprise Surveys find important correlations between key aspects of the business environment (competition, governance, infrastructure, financial development, etc.) and the performance of the private sector in terms of enterprise creation, growth, productivity and employment. However, which aspects are more important for private sector development depend on specific economic activities, characteristics of enterprises, country and sub-national characteristics, and many other factors.

International benchmarks such as the World Bank Enterprise Surveys, Doing Business and the OECD SME Policy Index point to different priorities among MENA countries. Defining concrete areas to improve business environments for SMEs and which are of regional interest is therefore an important subject for discussion in the Working Group.

Areas of work:

- Reducing unnecessary administrative burdens for entrepreneurs and SMEs by undertaking regulatory impact assessments, the promotion of e-government and one-stop shops and specific tools that ensure a proper consideration of SMEs' concerns during the early stages of policy making. The implementation of the "Think small first principle" (i.e. taking into account the needs and characteristics of SMEs when implementing legislation), based on international experiences, would provide useful guidance for this work. These activities will consider synergies with relevant work of the MENA-OECD Governance Programme and ongoing initiatives undertaken by MENA countries.

- Supporting the establishment of horizontal or inter-institutional initiatives to identify and address deficiencies in the business environment, especially those with greater negative effects on SMEs. Regional and international experience and practices will inform this work.
- Promoting incentives and addressing disincentives to the formalisation of SMEs, especially given the well-known costs of informality in terms of foregone growth and business opportunities due to lack of access to credit, financial services, public procurement, government support programmes, etc. Informality also burdens the overall economy and society in the form of lower wages, instable and precarious jobs, foregone tax revenue and unfair competition among many others. Work in this theme would take into account synergies with work by the World Bank, the African Development Bank, national research institutes and other organisations.

2.2 Fostering entrepreneurship and SME growth

New enterprises are essential drivers of employment, inclusive economic growth and productivity. Yet, the levels of enterprise creation and growth in the MENA region remain very limited, even when compared to other middle-income countries around the world (2013 OECD report on New Entrepreneurs and High Performance Enterprises in the Middle East and North Africa). Furthermore, OECD research finds that the contribution of new firms to job creation depends on the start-up rates in a country; the average size of firms at point of entry; the survival rate of start-ups; and the average growth rate of survivors. Hence, in addition to improving business environments, specific or targeted policies for SME creation and growth are therefore key elements for employment promotion and economic development.

Areas of work:

- Fostering SME growth by promoting their participation in the regional and global economy. Emphasis will be placed on good practices to increase SME participation in regional and global value chains. Promoting business linkages between foreign investors and SMEs will also be a priority area of work, given the important role of small firms in diffusing the benefits of economic openness to the local economy. This work will benefit from synergies with the activities of the MENA-OECD Working Group on Investment Policies and Promotion and will consider OECD wide work on global value chains.
- Promoting the development of non-financial support services for SMEs at different stages of the business life cycle and for different economic activities. These could include training and consultancy services, marketing, technology transfers and upgrade, innovation, etc.
- Increasing SME access to the domestic market, including by promoting SME access to public procurement opportunities (e.g. through cutting tenders into smaller lots, better informing SMEs of public procurement opportunities, e-procurement, ensuring that payments are made on time, etc.).

2.3 Facilitating access to finance

SMEs and entrepreneurs in the MENA region face a structural lack of access to finance. This is largely due to an underdevelopment of banking and financial markets. For instance, domestic credit to the private sector averaged 49% in the MENA region in 2014 compared to over 146% in the OECD, and the average number of commercial bank branches was 13.7, compared to 24.3 in the OECD. The share of people aged 15 or more with a bank account surpasses 50 only in the GCC countries and Algeria. Furthermore, next to Sub-Saharan Africa, the MENA region registers the highest regional shares of firms identifying access to finance as a major constraint: 35.7% compared with 11.6% in OECD countries. At the same time, collateral requirements remain high and can reach well over 200% of the value of the loan.

The 2014 SME Policy Index for the Mediterranean Middle East and North Africa identifies two broad areas for action to improve access to finance for SMEs in the MENA region: improving the legal and regulatory framework for access to external financing and increasing the availability and reach of sources of external finance for SMEs (credit guarantee schemes, microfinance, leasing, venture capital, etc.).

Areas of work:

- Supporting the implementation of measures to improve the legal and regulatory framework for access to finance, especially in areas concerning the establishment and improvement of credit information systems, registration systems for moveable assets and addressing high collateral and provision requirements. Synergies could be developed with the Union of Arab Banks, the Arab Monetary Fund, the World Bank, the African Development Bank, national research institutes and other organisations.
- Helping to increase the effectiveness, availability and reach of specific measures to promote access to bank financing such as credit guarantee schemes, non-bank financing (microfinance, leasing, factoring, etc.), venture capital and business angel networks.

2.4 Promoting more effective and efficient SME policy making

SME policy encompasses a wide range of policy dimensions, often under the remit of different ministries and government agencies. While it is essential that mandates over SME policy are clearly assigned and policy elaboration and implementation responsibilities are properly defined, it is vital that mechanisms that promote policy coordination are put in place. The presence of a multi-year SME development strategy supported by yearly action plans enhances policy coordination by providing a common platform, allowing for monitoring and evaluating the results of government actions against a defined set of objectives and targets while facilitating public-private dialogue.

Areas of work:

- Contributing to comprehensive and coherent approaches to SME policymaking by improving institutional coordination and public private dialogue. Encouraging the development and implementation of SME strategies or similar guiding documents to identify concrete policy objectives, targets, actions and institutional responsibilities could also be considered. This work would contribute to the proposed work on establishing multi-stakeholder initiatives or partnerships to address hurdles in the business environment for SMEs and improving the legal and regulatory framework for access to finance. This work would benefit from the activities to be undertaken by the OECD to follow-up the implementation of the recommendations of the SME Policy Index for the Mediterranean Middle East and North Africa 2014. OECD work in co-operation with the MENA Transition Fund of the Deauville Partnership could also prove useful for this policy theme.
- Promoting evidence-based policy making by strengthening the capacity of MENA countries to collect, analyse and disseminate data on SME and entrepreneurship. This work would be supported by OECD tools, notably the OECD-Eurostat Entrepreneurship Indicators Programme (EIP), which develops and disseminates policy-relevant and internationally-comparable SME indicators, based on an analytical model and measurement infrastructure that achieve international comparability. The OECD Scoreboard on Financing SMEs and Entrepreneurs, which documents the state of access to finance and monitors annually SME financing trends in OECD and non-OECD countries, would also be a helpful instrument for these activities. This work could eventually lead to the inclusion of interested MENA countries in those OECD tools.

- Strengthening capacities to monitor and evaluate the results of SME policies and programmes. The SME Policy Index results point to the very limited and sporadic evidence on the impact of the SME policies and measures in the MENA region. Existing evidence is typically limited to the number of beneficiaries of individual programmes, their sectors of activity, locations, amounts disbursed and recipients' opinions. Comprehensive monitoring and evaluation mechanisms of the relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, impact and sustainability of SME and entrepreneurship policies are widely missing. The OECD Framework for the Evaluation of SME Policies and Programmes will be a particularly useful tool in this regard.

3) Corporate Governance

Good corporate governance is an essential building block for countries that want to boost competitiveness, attract capital, develop the private sector and promote investment. It also responds to the calls of stakeholders and citizens for equal opportunities and fight against corruption and cronyism. These are priorities in the MENA region where a business culture of trust, transparency and accountability needs to be strengthened. As the recognised international standard setter in corporate governance, the OECD has established a number of regional networks around the world to support policy dialogue, identify reforms and build institutional capacity. For the MENA region, access to these discussions and resources will be a value-added. Of particular concern in the MENA region is corporate governance in the omnipresent state-owned enterprises (SOEs) that if well run have the potential to play a positive role in sustainable development and regional integration. If left unreformed, they will remain a burden on public finance and a source of endemic corruption. Reforms in this area can usefully be guided by the OECD Guidelines on Corporate Governance of State-Owned Enterprises.

3.1 Building a knowledge platform on corporate governance

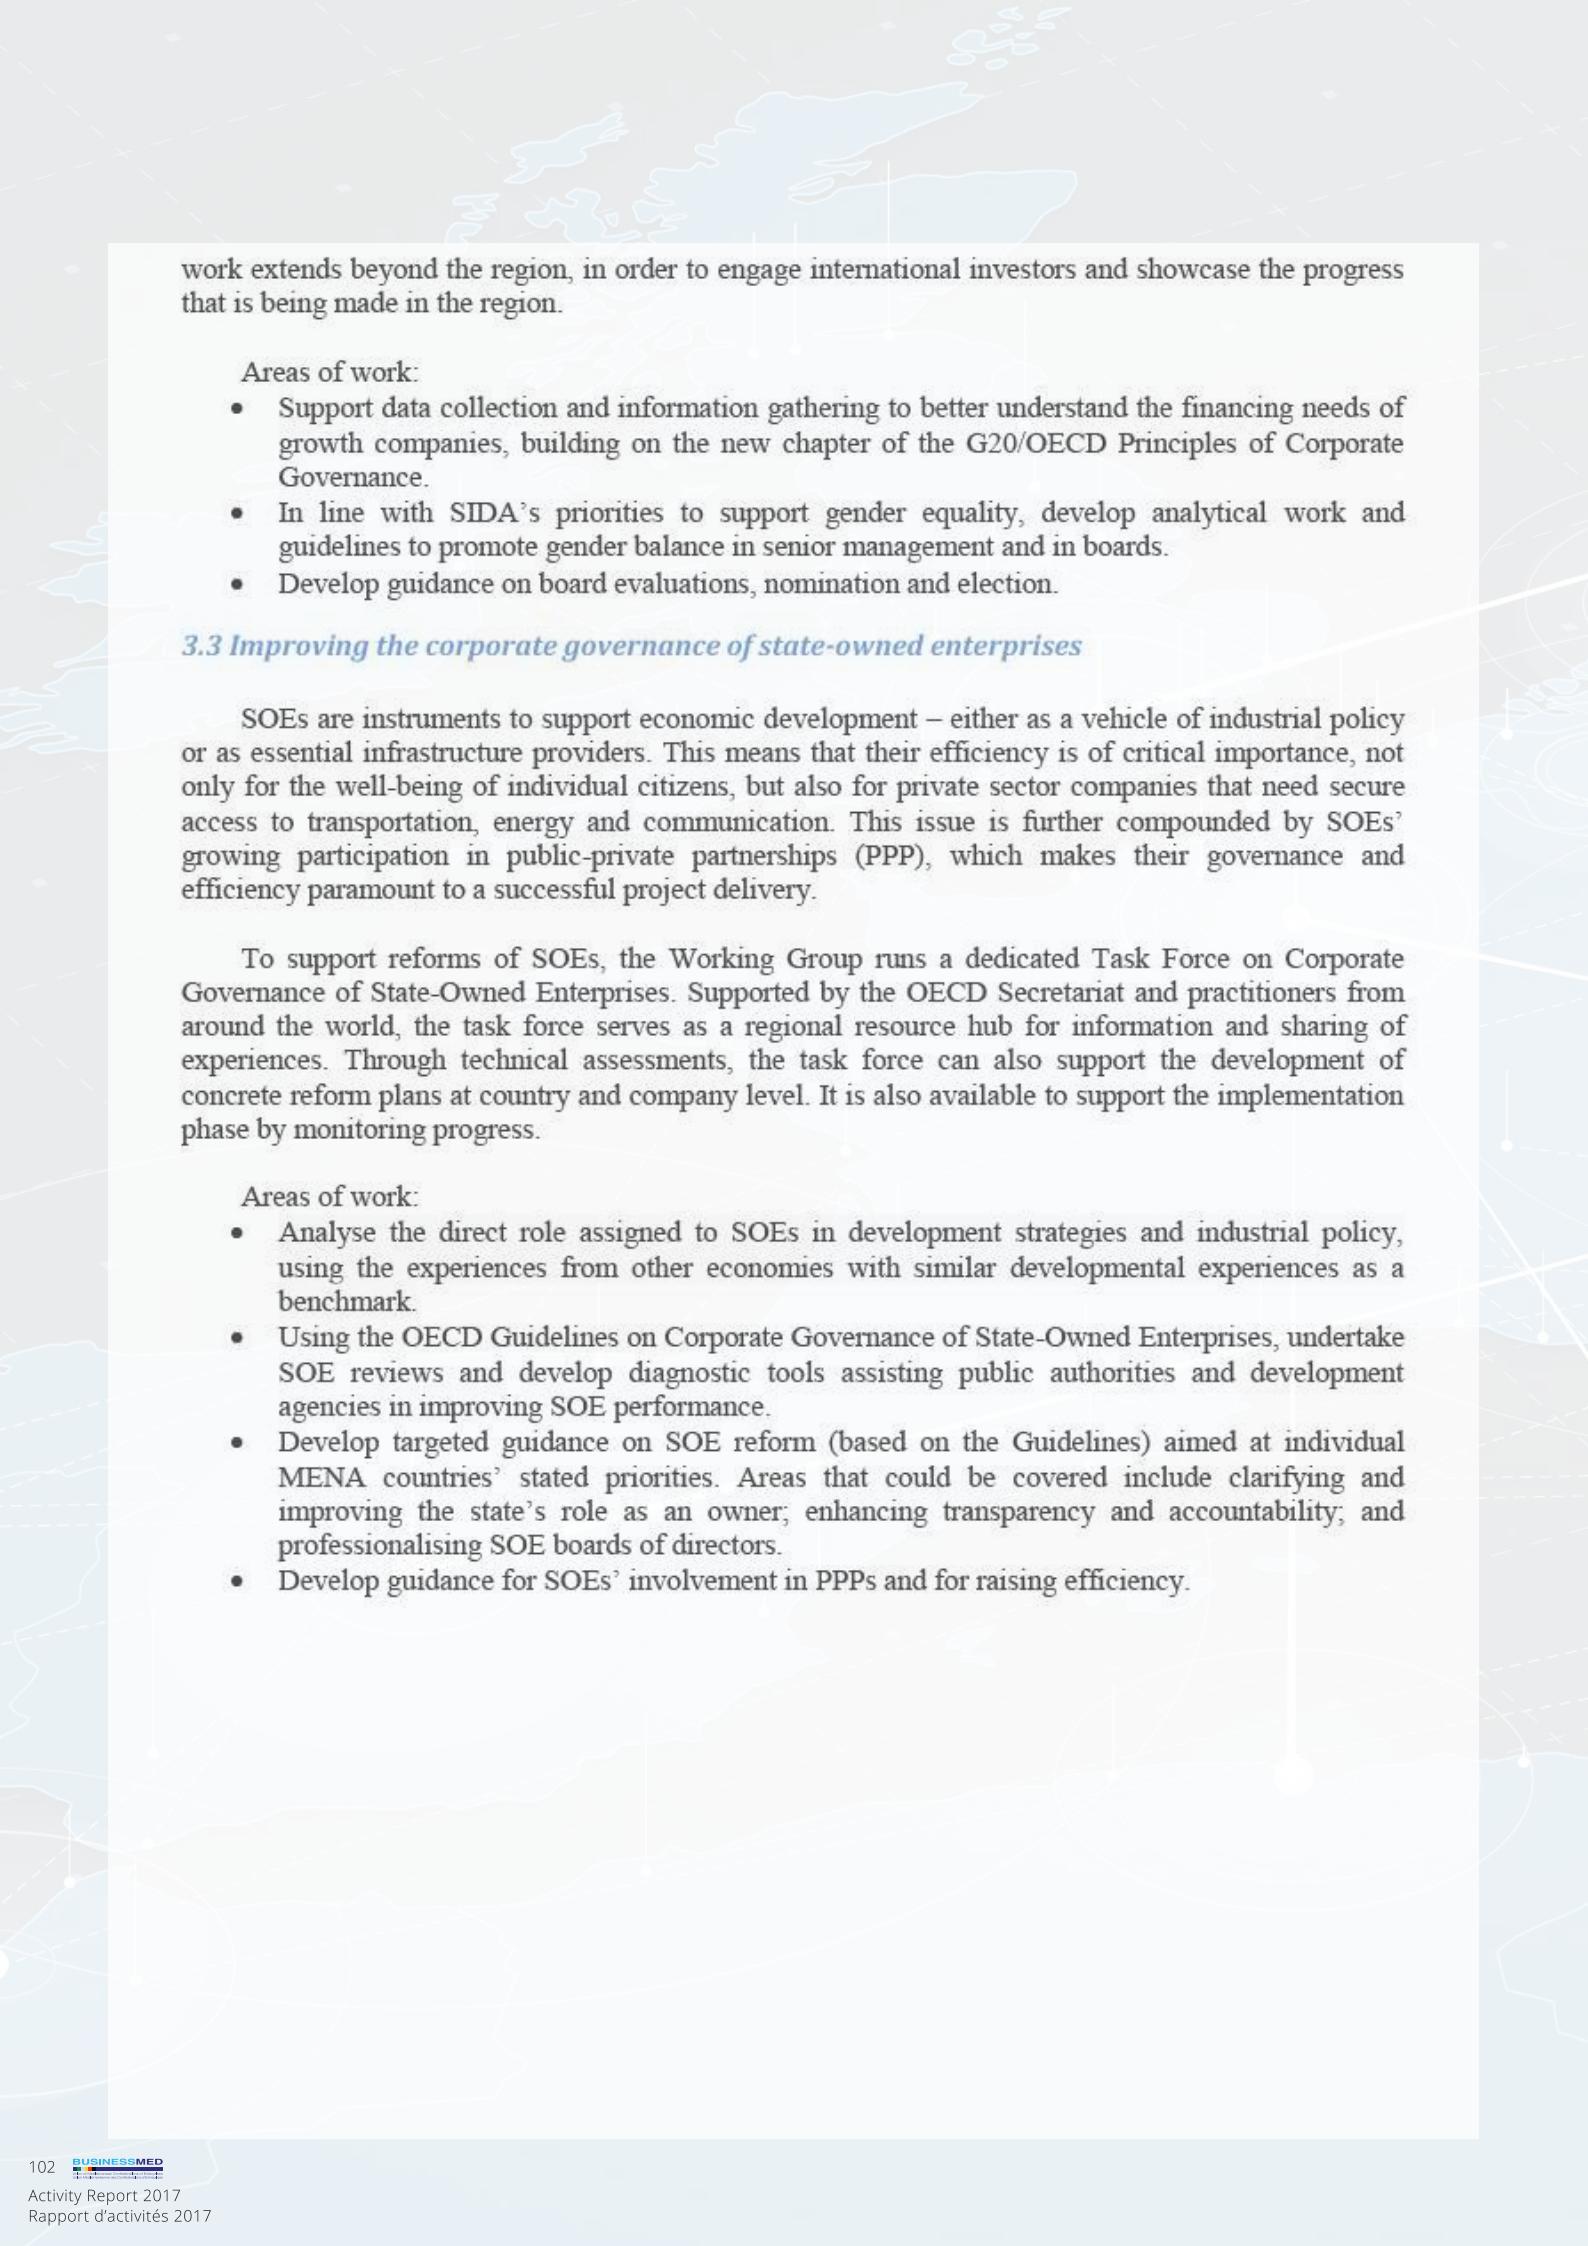

The Working Group will support initiatives where companies and investors together identify ways to improve corporate governance. Since such improvements may require adjustments in the regulatory framework, the involvement of legislators, regulators and the judiciary is essential. Business organisations, such as institutes of directors and corporate governance centres, that play a critical role for implementation on the ground, will also be involved. Participants will share their expertise in the form of peer learning and the development of good practices that are applied at a company level.

Areas of work:

- Foster exchange of data and analysis in MENA countries and compile an inventory of corporate governance rules, regulations, and practices in the region.
- Using the updated G20/OECD Principles of Corporate Governance as a reference, undertake a comparative stock-taking of progress and challenges in MENA.
- Develop commonly agreed priorities for reform to underpin peer reviews and country specific recommendations.
- Promote exchange of experiences between MENA and OECD securities regulators as well as stock exchanges to upgrade their expertise.

3.2 Promoting capital market development for private sector growth

The quality of corporate governance concerns both corporations and investors. It is the very foundation on which sound capital markets are built. Investors need assurance that their rights are well protected and companies want to operate in a predictable environment where they have access to long term capital for investment. A key objective of the Working Group is to support initiatives by stock exchanges, institutional investors, capital market regulators and others with a direct interest in establishing sound and efficient capital markets. In a world of global finance, it is important that this work extends beyond the region, in order to engage international investors and showcase the progress that is being made in the region.

Areas of work:

- Support data collection and information gathering to better understand the financing needs of growth companies, building on the new chapter of the G20/OECD Principles of Corporate Governance.
- In line with SIDA's priorities to support gender equality, develop analytical work and guidelines to promote gender balance in senior management and in boards.
- Develop guidance on board evaluations, nomination and election.

3.3 Improving the corporate governance of state-owned enterprises

SOEs are instruments to support economic development – either as a vehicle of industrial policy or as essential infrastructure providers. This means that their efficiency is of critical importance, not only for the well-being of individual citizens, but also for private sector companies that need secure access to transportation, energy and communication. This issue is further compounded by SOEs' growing participation in public-private partnerships (PPP), which makes their governance and efficiency paramount to a successful project delivery.

To support reforms of SOEs, the Working Group runs a dedicated Task Force on Corporate Governance of State-Owned Enterprises. Supported by the OECD Secretariat and practitioners from around the world, the task force serves as a regional resource hub for information and sharing of experiences. Through technical assessments, the task force can also support the development of concrete reform plans at country and company level. It is also available to support the implementation phase by monitoring progress.

Areas of work:

- Analyse the direct role assigned to SOEs in development strategies and industrial policy, using the experiences from other economies with similar developmental experiences as a benchmark.
- Using the OECD Guidelines on Corporate Governance of State-Owned Enterprises, undertake SOE reviews and develop diagnostic tools assisting public authorities and development agencies in improving SOE performance.
- Develop targeted guidance on SOE reform (based on the Guidelines) aimed at individual MENA countries' stated priorities. Areas that could be covered include clarifying and improving the state's role as an owner; enhancing transparency and accountability; and professionalising SOE boards of directors.
- Develop guidance for SOEs' involvement in PPPs and for raising efficiency.

Creating the MENA-OECD Business Advisory Board (BAB)

Draft Action Plan

Based on the mandate provided by the MENA-OECD Ministerial Conference of October 2016 to establish a Business Advisory Board (BAB), an Initial Preparatory Meeting was held on September 29, 2017, to validate the scope and parameters of the BAB. This Draft Action Plan, elaborated by OECD Global Relations in cooperation with Mr Carl Aaron, expert in private-public dialogue mechanisms, serves to capture key inputs from the discussion regarding the proposed structure and establishment of the BAB.

1. Introduction

Reform initiatives, in the Middle East and North Africa and beyond, often get bogged down because of a lack of institutionalised inter-ministerial coordination, open dialogue, and efficient project management. To address this “implementation challenge”, public-private dialogue (PPD) is increasingly used as a means to re-build trust between economic actors, functioning as catalyst for successful economic reforms. This is particularly true in the Middle East and North Africa, where the effects of political and economic volatility have threatened the very foundations of social consensus. Here, the private sector faces a number of important challenges, notably a weak advocacy capability vis-à-vis national governments, which hampers its ability to articulate common challenges and needs for change.

Partnering with the private sector in a structured, systematic and transparent way is key to support reform efforts aimed at improving the business environment and fostering job creation through private sector led growth and development. Yet, creating effective “reform coalitions” requires building the right institutional frameworks in which the private sector and civil society effectively have a voice in policy-making, leading to mutual understanding, better ground-level insights and policy outcomes.

The October 2016 Ministerial conference of the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme¹ proposed to establish the MENA-OECD Business Advisory Board (BAB) with the aim to foster the ability of the private sector to appear as credible partner for policy-making and reforms.

An Informal Preparatory Meeting took place on 29 September 2017, at the OECD Headquarters in Paris, to discuss the creation of the BAB. The meeting gathered various representatives of private sector organisations and think tanks from Morocco (CGEM), Tunisia (IACE), the Palestinian Authority (Federation of Palestinian Industries), as well as the Business and Industry Advisory Committee (BIAC) and Business Med. A video message was sent from the Spanish Employers Association (CEO-E), who expressed their interest in participating in this initiative but could not join the meeting. Other institutions from Egypt, Lebanon, Italy and Germany are being consulted.

2. Objectives and added value of the BAB

A significant part of the discussions during the Informal Preparatory Meeting focused on the proposed objective of the BAB, and its potential added value. It was recommended to conduct further research on other existing platforms that could be similar to the BAB in order to avoid duplications and identify possible synergies.

Participants identified the added value of the BAB as following:

- The MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme is well-placed to help raise the density, quality and visibility of public-private dialogue across the region. Building on its decade-old experience supporting private sector growth, the Programme has built solid networks of policy makers which meet regularly to discussed different policy issues that are fundamental to private sector development in the MENA region.

- BIAC, an advisory body to the OECD representing the views of the private sector, brings together 42 business and employers organizations from OECD countries, as well as 37 supranational sectoral organizations and a variety of policy groups. Those members are in a unique position to support MENA business associations with effective structural organization, advocacy approaches and membership strategies. BIAC members could share their experiences through engagement with the BAB itself, regional workshops and case studies. BIAC members could participate in BAB meetings in an advisory capacity.

Based on the mandate endorsed at the Ministerial Conference, and building on the different consultations including the discussions at the Informal Preparatory Meeting, it is recommended for the BAB to have two main objectives:

1. Enrich policy dialogue activities carried out in the Working Groups and policy networks of the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme.
2. Act as a dedicated regional platform for public private dialogue as to strengthen the capacity of business and industry to point out to relevant issue and to voice its message in a structured and coherent way.

3. SWOT Analysis of the BAB

The following SWOT analysis provides a brief take on the BAB's prospects.

Strengths	The BAB fills the critical gap of private sector input to the regional Working Groups of the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme. It builds on the unique role of the OECD in high level policy dialogue and of BIAC, which brings together business associations from OECD countries and supranational sectoral organizations with a wealth of good practice and technical expertise. Potential members are motivated, and see the value of this forum.
Weaknesses	The BAB is slightly behind schedule and needs to become formalized quickly to participate actively in the next meetings of the regional MENA-OECD Working Groups. In addition to this, organisational and financial resources for the establishment and management of the BAB are limited, therefore the expectations must be managed as to the potential scope of work.
Opportunities	Leveraging the capacities of the different working groups, the BAB has the potential to inject significant dynamism into current policy debates in the Middle East and North Africa by formulating and disseminating high-level advice from leading business and industry on prevailing policy challenges and reform priorities in MENA economies. Through annual high-profile meetings between business and governments in the context of the Programme's regional working groups, the BAB will provide spaces for multi-stakeholder dialogue

	and encourage transparent and participatory policy-making processes. By organising various training workshops and programmes, the BAB will strengthen the policy advocacy role of business associations and provide opportunities for networking and the sharing of knowledge and best practices. Drawing on the experiences of BIAC and other trans-regional business organisations will promote cross-fertilization of good practices between OECD and MENA countries.
Threats	The key threat to the BAB is low attendance, as mentioned by Business Med at the Informal Preparatory Meeting. A strong role of the BAB Secretariat and experts, especially in the early months is important to address this. Also, the BAB should begin by building a smaller core group of members to garner support. There are other similar activities and platforms supporting business associations and PPD. The BAB needs to be careful to complement them, building upon the OECD's unique capabilities.

4. BAB Membership and Activities

4.1. Membership

Participation in the MENA-OECD Business Advisory Board will be open to private sector organisations from the 18 members of the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme, as well as from OECD countries.²

Participants at the Informal Preparatory Meeting (IPM) stressed the importance of commitment of members, with unsuccessful examples of groups with many members, many of whom rarely turned up. Having this risk in mind, the BAB will form a core group of about 10 key participants, to act as steering committee or inner group to provide guidance and ensure commitment to the BAB. Private sector representations that have participated at the Informal Preparatory Meeting of the BAB or that have already shown particular interest in the BAB could form the core membership of the Board.

In addition to the various business associations from MENA countries, membership to the BAB could be extended to several other institutions including the MENA-OECD Women's Economic Empowerment Forum (WEEF), BIAC, Business Med, UfM, and other representative business associations depending on the topics.

The Structure of the BAB is proposed as follows (figure 1):

- Co-chairs: In order to mirror the structure of the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme Working Groups, the BAB will be chaired by one representative from a MENA country and from an OECD country respectively.

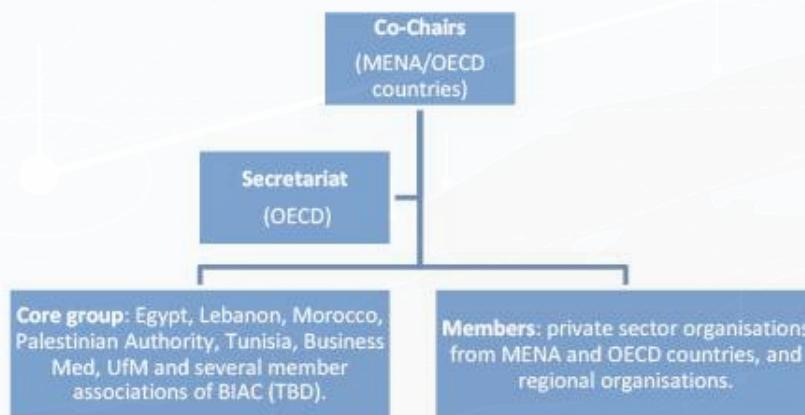

² Participating economies include Algeria, Bahrain, Djibouti, Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Mauritania, Morocco, Oman, Palestinian Authority, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Tunisia, United Arab Emirates and Yemen.

The co-chairs are also expected to represent the BAB at the higher level meetings of the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme such as the Steering Group and the Advisory Board, which meet on a yearly basis.

- Core-group: The core group, of about 10 members, will be expected to:
 - Provide strategic advice and overview the operations of the BAB. An annual meeting of the co-chairs (it could take place virtually) will be organised for this purpose;
 - Attend meetings of the BAB and, when possible, attend the regional Working Group meetings of the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Programme; and
 - Provide comments to the analytical work prepared by the Secretariat in the context of the BAB.
- Secretariat: The OECD's Middle East and Africa Division of the Global Relations Secretariat (GRS) will serve as Secretariat and is responsible for the daily functioning of the task force and the implementation of its work programme. The Secretariat will communicate regularly with the co-chairs to ensure transparency and maximise the impact of the task force.
- Members and participants: It is the institution that is invited to be a member of the BAB, and the institution should be required to put forward a board member, who is likely to be a well-established business person also. The individual will have a formal role in the business association since he/she must represent its views, but should also be a businessperson in order to speak from experience.

The institution will be expected to provide an initial response to the agenda topics / issue sheet for each Working Group meeting, which will be summarized by the Secretariat and shared ahead of the meeting.

4.2. Activities

The proposed BAB activities for 2017-19 are as follows (and shown in table 1 as a timeline):

- Before launching the BAB (expected in early 2018), the OECD team will develop a scoping note (to be finalised by December 2017) to identify other similar initiatives to avoid duplication and look for synergies. This could include looking at the ASEAN Business Advisory Council (BAC), the PPD platform spearheaded by the World Bank, and others.
- The Secretariat, in collaboration with the core group and voluntary participants, will elaborate a regional report analysing the status of organisation of private sector associations and existing PPD mechanisms in selected MENA countries. A draft would be shared at the launch event, where it would be discussed. The report would be further elaborated building on the inputs from the core group and the members of the BAB.
- Yearly regional meetings, including the launch event (2018 and 2019).
- Two capacity building trainings to strengthen private sector associations in the region (2018 and 2019).
- BAB participation in each of the MENA-OECD Competitiveness Working Group meetings (regularly). Preparatory activities for each meeting will be coordinated by the Secretariat.

1. Key questions

Based on the discussion above of the structure and activities of the BAB, we invite members of the informal preparatory meeting to offer any other initial reactions. Specific questions include:

- Would your organisation confirm its interest in being part of the core group?
- Which other platforms are you aware of that should be explored in the scoping note to better shape the BAB?
- Is the timetable realistic? Are any other events or activities desirable in addition / instead of those outlined above?

ENGAGEMENTS DES PATRONATS DANS LA LUTTE CONTRE LES CHANGEMENTS CLIMATIQUES

Dans la dynamique créée par l'adoption de l'Accord de Paris et son entrée en vigueur en 2016 les associations patronales se sont regroupées à Marrakech -en marge de la COP22-afin de lancer un réseau de patronats intitulé « Marrakech Business Action For Climate » (MBA 4 Climate).Ce réseau a pour objectif de créer une synergie et des échanges permanents entre secteurs privés dans le but de réussir leurs engagements à :

- Accompagner les gouvernements et l'ensemble des autres acteurs dans la mise en œuvre de l'Accord de Paris ;
- Promouvoir l'émergence d'une nouvelle économie à bas carbone luttant contre les effets du Changement Climatique(CC) tout en créant de nouveaux emplois et en faisant progresser la prospérité économique commune.

Le réseau MBA4Climate est constitué, à ce jour, d'une cinquantaine d'associations d'employeurs à travers le monde et reste ouvert à toutes les autres associations d'employeurs souhaitant y adhérer.

Le MBA4 Climate, présidé par la Confédération Générale des Entreprises du Maroc (CGEM), avec l'appui du patronat des îles Fidji et du BizMEF, s'est réuni le 7 Novembre 2017 lors de la COP23 et a adopté la déclaration patronale présentée ci-dessous.

PREAMULE

Le secteur privé reconnaît la nécessité impérieuse de répondre de manière efficace aux risques du Changement Climatique :

- Le Groupe d'experts Intergouvernemental sur l'Evolution du Climat (GIEC) continue de fournir des évaluations scientifiques sur le changement climatique qui indiquent clairement la nécessité de réduire les émissions en Gaz à Effet de Serre (GES) et d'accroître la résilience afin de limiter les risques de répercussions néfastes du Changement Climatique;
- L'expérience récente souligne la vulnérabilité sociétale face aux événements climatiques extrêmes et démontre la nécessité urgente d'améliorer la préparation aux catastrophes et les systèmes de prévention, d'accroître la résistance des infrastructures et d'améliorer la gouvernance afin de limiter et éviter les dégâts liés à ces événements ;

LE SECTEUR PRIVÉ S'ENGAGE VOLONTAIREMENT DANS LA LUTTE CONTRE LE CHANGEMENT CLIMATIQUE ET COLLABORE AVEC LE GOUVERNEMENT ET LA SOCIÉTÉ CIVILE

Le secteur privé réaffirme sa détermination à réussir la transition économique et sociétale qui s'impose vers une nouvelle économie à bas carbone et résiliente aux effets du Changement Climatique, tout en créant de nouveaux emplois et en faisant progresser la prospérité économique commune. Cette transition-prônée par l'Accord de Paris-ne se réalisera pas sans des actions plus ambitieuses de la part des gouvernements et de la société civile.

Le secteur privé s'active et innove pour réussir cette transition particulièrement dans des secteurs clefs tels que l'Energie, l'Habitat, les transports, l'Industrie, l'Agriculture et la Forêt. Cela permet-et permettra davantage demain-de protéger l'environnement, de stimuler la croissance propre et le développement durable, de créer des emplois ainsi que d'améliorer la santé humaine .Le secteur privé souhaiterait avoir plus de soutien gouvernemental pour réussir rapidement cette étape décisive en particulier à travers un Partenariat Public Privé structurel. Le changement impliquera une coopération et une approbation pour développer et distribuer des systèmes technologiques avancés pouvant mettre fin aux pratiques actuelles.

MISE EN ŒUVRE DE L'ACCORD DE PARIS

Le Secteur privé souligne son engagement à participer pour compléter le Programme de travail de Paris en 2018. Les modalités, procédures et lignes directrices attendues concernant ce Programme sont d'une extrême importance pour la réussite de la mise en œuvre de l'Accord de Paris.

Le secteur privé est, également, prêt et souhaite prendre part activement au dialogue de facilitation de 2018 qui devrait aider les parties à faire le point sur les progrès réalisés et à nourrir de nouvelles ambitions en conformité avec l'esprit de l'Accord de Paris.

Favoriser cette participation concrète du secteur privé à ces étapes décisives de préparation de la mise en œuvre de l'Accord de Paris nécessite un rôle reconnu pour les groupements d'entreprises représentatifs. L'objectif étant de donner des commentaires et des perspectives quant aux progrès globaux et aux futures Contributions Déterminées au niveau National (CDN)

ENGAGEMENTS ET INITIATIVES DES ACTEURS NON ÉTATIQUES

Le Secteur privé est conscient du besoin d'un renforcement des engagements et initiatives d'acteurs non étatiques pour réussir la tenue de la feuille de route de l'Accord de Paris. Il approuve, dans ce sens, les efforts et réalisations du Partenariat pour l'Action climatique globale, lancé à Marrakech, afin d'accélérer l'action climatique.

Le secteur privé soutient ce Partenariat, qui vise à asseoir les ponts et créer une connexion entre les différents acteurs étatiques et non étatiques. Un Partenariat qui a été structuré et institutionnalisé en marge de la 72ème Assemblée Générale des Nations Unies, en Septembre 2017. Nous croyons qu'il est essentiel de développer des lignes directrices idoines pour que les participants expriment, de manière volontaire et transparente, leur progrès sous l'égide du Partenariat.

RENUFORCEMENT DES CAPACITÉS, TECHNOLOGIES ET FINANCEMENTS CLIMAT

Le secteur privé insiste sur l'importance de soutiens forts en matière de finances, de technologies et de renforcement des capacités pour permettre aux acteurs économiques, en particulier dans les pays en développement, à participer à cet effort global pour répondre au changement climatique. Malgré les progrès accomplis, un manque de capacité et de soutien limite considérablement la contribution possible de plusieurs entrepreneurs et PMES, notamment dans les pays en voie de développement. Le monde de l'entreprise a besoin d'une approche spécifique afin de promouvoir et saisir les opportunités. Cela est particulièrement attendu au niveau des financements climatiques où le secteur privé a besoin de plus de soutien.

IMPLEMENTATION OF THE NATIONALLY DETERMINED CONTRIBUTIONS

The private sector within nations is aware of its role and its responsibility in the successful implementation of the commitments undertaken by countries in their Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs). Structured national public/private partnerships, solid and lasting, concerning these NDCs must be established to successfully achieve them.

PARIS AGREEMENT FINANCING/COOPERATION – ARTICLE 6

The worldwide transition toward the new low GHG-emission economy in the spirit of the Paris Agreement, will involve the adoption of incentives and cooperative measures that motivate and encourage market-based solutions. This will require that Article 6 of the Paris Agreement is implemented in a way that recognizes and encourages action and involves the private sector by strengthening cooperation towards a more effective international governance of greenhouse gas reduction mechanisms.

EMPLOYERS' ORGANIZATIONS COMMITMENTS IN THE FIGHT AGAINST CLIMATE CHANGE

In the dynamic created by the adoption of the Paris Agreement and its entry into force in 2016, employer associations gathered in Marrakech – in conjunction with the COP22 – to launch an Employer Network called “Marrakech Business Action For Climate” (MBA 4 Climate). This network aims to create a synergy and permanent exchanges between private sectors with the objective of achieving their commitments to :

- Partner with governments and all other actors in the implementation of the Paris Agreement ;
- Promote the emergence of a new low-carbon economy that combats Climate Change (CC) while creating new jobs and advancing shared economic prosperity.

At present, the MBA4Climate network consists of fifty employers' associations from developed and developing nations. It is open to all other employers' associations worldwide.

The MBA4Climate, chaired by the General Confederation of Moroccan Enterprises (CGEM) with the support of the employers of the Fiji Islands and of BIZMEF, met on 14 November 2017 during the COP23 and adopted the Employers Declaration presented below.

PREAMBLE

The private sector recognizes the need to respond urgently and effectively to the risks of climate change :

- The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change continues to provide scientific assessments of climate change that demonstrate the need to reduce emissions and increase resilience to limit risks of adverse outcomes ;
- Recent experience highlights the vulnerability of society to extreme weather events and demonstrates the urgent need to improve disaster preparedness and response systems, increase resilience, especially of essential infrastructure, and improve governance to limit and avoid damages;

THE PRIVATE SECTOR IS TAKING ACTIONS ON ITS OWN AND WELCOMES OPPORTUNITIES TO COLLABORATE WITH GOVERNMENT AND CIVIL SOCIETY TO IMPROVE RESILIENCE AND ADDRESS RISKS.

The private sector reaffirms its determination to succeed in the economic and societal transition to a new low-carbon economy, while creating new jobs and advancing shared economic prosperity. This transformation – advocated by the Paris Agreement – will not occur without increased investments and ambitious actions by government and civil society.

The private sector is active and investing and innovating to successfully accomplish this transformation, particularly in critical sectors such as Energy, Buildings, Transportation, Industry, Agriculture and Forestry. This allows for – and will allow for in the future – the protection of the environment, the stimulation of clean growth and sustainable development, jobs creation and improved health. The private sector would welcome more government support to enable it to go more rapidly in this decisive stage, including through the development of structured Public/Private Partnerships. Change will require cooperation and approval to develop and deploy advanced technology systems that may disrupt current practices at the lowest possible cost to societies. It will also require climate ambitions, especially those of major economies, to converge as soon as possible in order to accomplish the ambitious goals of the Paris Agreement while, at the same time, provide a global level playing field.

IMPLEMENTATION OF THE PARIS AGREEMENT

The private sector highlights its commitment to participate in the completion of the 2018 Paris Work Program. The methods, procedures, and guidelines within this program are essential for the successful implementation of the Paris Agreement and for business action.

The private sector is also prepared to and wishes to take an active part in the 2018 facilitative dialog which should help parties to take stock of the progress made and enable the development of new ambitions in accordance with the spirit of the Paris Agreement.

To promote concrete participation of the private sector in the decisive preparatory stages of the implementation of the Paris Agreement, requires a recognized role for representative business groups to provide input and perspectives on global progress and future NDCs.

COMMITMENTS AND INITIATIVES OF NON-STATE ACTORS

The private sector is aware of the need to continue and enhance voluntary commitments and initiatives from non-State actors that contribute to the goals of Paris Agreement. Many of these are documented in the Partnership for Global Climate Action, launched in Marrakech to accelerate climate action.

The private sector supports this Partnership, which aims to build partnerships and create a connection between various State and non-State actors, and which was structured and institutionalized in parallel with the 72nd General Assembly of the United Nations in September 2017. We believe that is essential to develop appropriate guidelines for participants voluntarily and transparently to report progress under the Partnership.

DEVELOPING CAPACITIES, TECHNOLOGIES, AND CLIMATE FINANCING

The private sector stresses the importance of support in the areas of finance, technology and capacity building to allow economic actors, particularly in developing nations, to participate in this global effort to respond to climate change. Although progress has been made, lack of capacity and support severely limit the contributions that may be made by many entrepreneurs and small and medium enterprises, especially in the least developed countries. A specific approach for the business world is should be developed to promote and capture opportunities. This is particularly needed for climate financing where the private sector – in developing nations – needs more support to attain its potential.

IMPLEMENTATION OF THE NATIONALLY DETERMINED CONTRIBUTIONS

The private sector within nations is aware of its role and its responsibility in the successful implementation of the commitments undertaken by countries in their Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs). Structured national public/private partnerships, solid and lasting, concerning these NDCs must be established to successfully achieve them.

«Italia decisiva per la sponda Sud»

—Nicoletta Picchio | Venerdì 02 Dicembre 2016

ROMA

Rilanciare gli investimenti nell'area della sponda Sud del Mediterraneo, non solo da parte delle grandi imprese ma, e soprattutto, delle Pmi. «Come Businessmed siamo pronti ad agevolare le aziende che vorranno non solo esportare ma anche investire in questi Paesi, creando una corsia preferenziale che accelererà le procedure e faccia superare gli eventuali ostacoli che le imprese possono incontrare».

È il messaggio che Jacques Jean Sarraf sta ripetendo negli appuntamenti istituzionali che ha in agenda nella sua visita nella Capitale: prima al Forum Euro-Mediterraneo, che si è svolto mercoledì in Confindustria ed è stato aperto dal presidente Vincenzo Boccia, poi al Med Dialogue 2016, la conferenza internazionale sui temi dell'area del Mediterraneo, organizzata dalla Farnesina e dall'Ispi e che si concluderà domani. Nel suo ruolo di presidente di Businessmed, l'organizzazione che riunisce le associazioni imprenditoriali di 22 Paesi dell'area Med, si sta impegnando per dare una nuova spinta al partenariato economico.

«Vogliamo attrarre investimenti e creare occupazione. Un modo anche per arginare le emigrazioni. L'Italia può avere un ruolo centrale nel rilancio del Mediterraneo», è il pensiero di Sarraf, libanese, presidente del gruppo Malla, società che spazia dalle tecnologie, alle costruzioni, alla distribuzione di beni di consumo, al settore farmaceutico. C'è l'intento di intensificare i rapporti, con il Libano in particolare, come è stato sottolineato nell'incontro con la presidente della Camera, Laura Boldrini, che ha ricevuto Sarraf e una delegazione di imprenditori libanesi a Palazzo San Macuto (in segno di amicizia un cedro del Libano è stato piantato nel Chiostro della Cisterna).

Il primo appuntamento della sua visita in Italia è stato in Confindustria: un incontro istituzionale ma anche operativo, con oltre 300 imprenditori italiani e dell'area Med che hanno parlato faccia a faccia di business. Quali saranno le prossime tappe operative?

Vogliamo avere il ruolo di facilitatori nei rapporti tra le imprese. Businessmed ha istituito nelle organizzazioni imprenditoriali dei Paesi membri desk di accoglienza per le aziende: vogliamo favorire investimenti, lo scambio tecnologico, aiutare a trovare il partner adatto a chi vuole investire. In questa sfida è importante poter collaborare con Confindustria e avere come vice presidente di Businessmed Alberto Baban, presidente della Piccola industria di Confindustria, proprio per attrarre le Pmi.

Quale ruolo può svolgere il nostro Paese?

L'Italia ha un ruolo di cerniera e può svolgere un compito importante nel rilanciare i rapporti economici nell'area del Mediterraneo e con il Libano in particolare. È emerso sia nel Forum in Confindustria, sia nel corso del dibattito del Med Dialogue, stando alle parole del ministro degli Esteri, Paolo Gentiloni. Con il Libano l'Italia è stata per molti anni primo partner commerciale. Oggi sia nel mio Paese, sia in vaste zone dell'area Med c'è una predominanza degli investimenti cinesi. L'Italia, l'Europa devono investire di più e non limitarsi agli scambi commerciali.

Ci sono settori prioritari?

Il campo di collaborazione è assai vasto. Si va dalla meccanica, ai beni di largo consumo, all'agroindustria, alle tecnologie, alla farmaceutica, alla ricerca.

Sono pochi i Paesi dell'area dove c'è la pace e una stabilità politica. E questo indubbiamente è un freno...

SCELTI PER TE

Si, ma a maggior ragione dobbiamo spingere l'acceleratore sulla collaborazione economica. È con lo sviluppo e la crescita che si può creare ricchezza, offrire lavoro, frenare i flussi di emigrazione.

L'accordo di Barcellona del 1995, noto come partenariato euromediterraneo, avrebbe dovuto imprimere una svolta nei rapporti tra Ue e area Med. Invece?

Rilanciare gli investimenti nell'area della sponda Sud del Mediterraneo non solo da parte degli grandi investitori ma soprattutto delle Pmi. «C'è Businessmed stiamo pronti ad agevolare le aziende che vorranno non solo esportare ma anche investire in questi Paesi, creando una corsia preferenziale che accelererà le procedure e concluderà domani. Nel suo ruolo di presidente di Businessmed, l'organizzazione che riunisce le associazioni imprenditoriali di 22 Paesi dell'area Med, si sta impegnando per dare una nuova spinta al partenariato europeo».

Vogliamo attirare investimenti e creare occupazione. Un modo anche per arginare le emigrazioni. L'Italia può avere un ruolo centrale nel rilancio del Mediterraneo», è il pensiero di Sarraf, libanese, presidente del gruppo Mitalia, società che spazia dalle tecnologie alle costruzioni, dal petrolio all'industria di consumo, al settore farmaceutico. C'è l'intento di intensificare i rapporti con il Libano in particolare, come è stato sottolineato nell'incontro con la presidente della Camera, Laura Boldrini, che ha ricevuto Sarraf e una delegazione di imprenditori italiani e libanesi. Ma il progetto di oggi è diverso. Il Mercato comune del Lavoro è stato plasmato nel Cuorino della Cisterza?

È il messaggio che Jacques Jean Sarraf sta rivolgendo agli appuntamenti internazionali che ha in agenda nella scorsa settimana nella Capitale, prima al Forum Euro-Mediterraneo, che è avvuto monologo in Confindustria e si è stato spinto dal presidente Vincenzo Bocca, poi al Med Dialogues 2016, la conferenza internazionale sulla politica dell'area del Mediterraneo, organizzata da la Farnesina e dall'Ipsi e che si trovare il partner adatto a chi vuole investire. In questa sfida è importante poter collaborare con Confindustria e avere una viva presenza di Businessmed. Abbiamo parlato faccia a faccia di business. Quale sarà la prossima tappa operativa?

Vogliamo avere il ruolo di facilitatore nei rapporti tra le imprese. Businessmed ha istituito nelle sei nazionali imprenditoriali dell'area Med i comitati di sviluppo per le migrazioni, varrà fatto in collaborazione con i sindacati territoriali, facendo affari con i comitati di sviluppo economici e nell'area del Mediterraneo e con il Libano in particolare. È entrato nel Forum in Confindustria, si è nel corso del dibattito del Med Dialogues, stando alle parole del ministro degli Esteri, Paolo Gentiloni. Come Libano l'Italia è un paese per molti anni prima di uscire dal mercato. Oggi, nel mio Paese, non vi è una carenza dell'area Med e c'è una predominanza degli investimenti internazionali. L'Italia ha un ruolo di certezza e può svolgere un ruolo importante nel rilanciare i rapporti economici nell'area

Forum Euro-Mediterraneo

Mercoledì, 30 Novembre, 2016 - 09:00 - 18:00

Roma, Confindustria, Viale dell'Astronomia, 30

Confindustria organizza, in collaborazione con ICE AGENZIA, BUSINESSMED (Unione delle Confederazioni Mediterraneo delle Imprese), il Ministero dello Sviluppo Economico e il Ministero degli Affari Esteri e della Cooperazione Internazionale, il Forum Economico Euro-Mediterraneo.

L'evento si terrà a Roma il prossimo 30 novembre, alla vigilia dei Dialoghi Mediterranei (1-3 dicembre 2016).

Il Forum vedrà la partecipazione di vertici imprenditoriali e rappresentanti di Associazioni ed Istituzioni provenienti dai Paesi della sponda sud del Mediterraneo e punterà a rilanciare le relazioni economiche e a valorizzare la collaborazione tra imprese in un processo di integrazione economica ed industriale della regione.

Il Mediterraneo continua a rappresentare un hub e punto di incontro fra culture e continenti diversi; è un luogo determinante e cruciale, ricco e complesso, attore di primo piano sullo scacchiere internazionale in cui la leadership Euro-Mediterranea può trovare nell'Italia, baricentro naturale, un suo punto di riferimento.

Il nostro Paese rappresenta il 3° partner commerciale dei Paesi mediterranei, dopo Stati Uniti e Germania, mentre le nostre esportazioni nell'area sono più che raddoppiate negli ultimi 15 anni, raggiungendo quasi quota 30 miliardi a cui si aggiungono circa 15 miliardi di export verso l'area del Golfo e segnando un ritmo di crescita superiore a quello dei principali paesi europei.

Grazie all'eccellenza che l'Italia rappresenta su scala globale in settori industriali ad alto valore aggiunto ed alle enormi potenzialità in termini di trasferimento di know-how e di promozione di uno sviluppo sostenibile, il sistema industriale italiano costituisce un partner strategico per i mercati della regione.

Il Forum. Le nostre imprese possono essere uno strumento di integrazione e stabilizzazione dell'area

Italia decisiva per il Mediterraneo

Le imprese italiane come strumento di integrazione e stabilizzazione dell'area mediterranea. Con l'Italia che può svolgere un ruolo di cerniera tra l'Unione europea e i paesi Med. Per rilanciare questa strategia si è svolto ieri a Roma il terzo Forum Euro-Mediterraneo, il terzo dopo quello di Palermo del 2006 e quello del 2010, che si è tenuto sempre nella Capitale. Un appuntamento non solo politico: sono stati 330 gli incontri faccia a faccia tra le imprese, tra le 145 aziende italiane e le 186 dell'area mediterranea presenti al Forum.

«Un segno concreto della voglia di cooperare», ha detto il presidente di Confindustria, Vincenzo Boccia, che ha aperto i lavori. «C'è la volontà di reagire da parte del mondo imprenditoriale, per contribuire alla crescita e sottolineare l'importanza della questione industriale», ha continuato il presidente di Confindustria, rilanciando il «partenariato per il co-sviluppo» e sottolineando che «la crescita è la precondizione per combattere diseguaglianze e povertà».

Le sfide di oggi, come ha detto Jacques-Jean Sarrat, presidente di Businessmed, l'associazione delle Confindustrie dei paesi delsponda Sud del Mediterraneo), sono aumentare lo sviluppo sostenibile, avere strutture più sicure per favorire la crescita. «Su 39 paesi dell'Euro-Mediterraneo solo sono in pace», ha detto Sarrat, convinto che la pace sia necessaria per investire. E viceversa. «Non è solo rischio politico, ma terrorismo a frenare maggiormente le imprese. Anche se non tocca agli imprenditori farsi carico dei compiti della politica, proprio lo sviluppo delle economie nazionali sarebbe la migliore risposta ad alcune esigenze comuni e trasversali della maggior parte dei paesi sul mediterraneo», ha concordato Alberto Babani, presidente della Piccola industria di Confindustria e vice presidente di Businessmed. «Momenti d'incontro come questo sono fondamentali», ha aggiunto Babani, «per aiutare la riflessione e lo scambio tra culture diverse e gettare le basi di un'alleanza sociale che riconosca il rispetto di tutte le popolazioni e ci faccia interpreti dell'ambiente, per creare una comunità imprenditoriale più forte».

La convinzione è che lo sviluppo economico della sponda Sud del Mediterraneo sia una priorità per il nostro paese: l'intercambio è aumentato del 64% tra il 2001 e il 2015, incide per l'8% sui nostri scambi con un valore di 66,5 miliardi nel 2015 che potrebbero salire a oltre 68 nel 2018. Le imprese già presenti sul territorio sono circa 3 mila. «Stiamo però perdendo terreno nell'export, a favore della Cina», ha detto il presidente di Icc-Agenzia, Michele Scannavini, che ha annunciato un piano Export-Sud nell'area Med e l'arrivo di tre investimenti importanti dalla Turchia, grazie al desk Icc. Anche la Sacce è impegnata, come ha sottolineato il presidente, Beriammo Quintieri, citando le stime del Fondo monetario internazionale, che prevedono una crescita del 3% circa per l'area Med per i prossimi sarà: «insieme alla Sismi ci poniamo come interlocutore delle imprese».

Sarrat ha invitato le aziende non solo ad esportare, ma anche ad investire nella sponda Sud del Mediterraneo, ammettendo però che occorrono maggiorni sforzi per rendere più trasparente ed efficiente l'amministrazione pubblica e che occorre un sistema di governance aperto e trasparente.

L'impegno del governo per rafforzare il dialogo politico e per la pace è stato confermato dal sottosegretario allo Sviluppo economico, Ivan Scalfarotto. «Attuare una politica di cooperazione euro-mediterranea - ha insistito Boccia - sarà un processo lungo e non semplice, ma è fondamentale agire in nome di un comune interesse strategico di sicurezza e sviluppo». A trarre profitto lo scenario complessivo è stato Paolo Magni, direttore di Isq, in particolare nel dibattito, per quanto riguarda i settori economici in cui può essere maggiore la collaborazione, ci si è soffermati sull'energia.

Africa Nord

Mediterraneo: a Confindustria si discute di pace e business, "dalla geopolitica alla geoconomia"

1 dicembre 2016

AFRICA DEL NORD – "Passare dalla geopolitica alla geoconomia del Mediterraneo": a dirlo è stato ieri il presidente di Confindustria Vincenzo Bocca, apendo il Forum Euro Mediterraneo tenuto nella sede della principale associazione degli Industriali italiani.

Durante l'incontro è emerso con chiarezza la richiesta alla politica da parte degli imprenditori di tutta le sponde del Mediterraneo di riportare alla normalità la situazione in questa zona di mondo, dove, come ha evidenziato il presidente di Businessmed il'associazione che raccoglie gli imprenditori di tutto il bacino Mediterraneo) solo in cinque paesi si può dire vi sia una reale pace.

"E' proprio la geopolitica il problema - ha detto nel suo acceso e franco intervento il libanese Jacques Jean Sarraf, presidente di Businessmed - Dov'è la pace? Come possiamo avere la pace? Volete investire e commerciare? Aiutateci a trovare la pace, perché la vera sfida è creare uno sviluppo sostenibile. Siamo noi uomini di affari a pagare il prezzo della geopolitica".

Una risposta indiretta è arrivata da Bocca, il quale ha sottolineato come "Il vostro benessere (rivolgendosi ai delegati dei paesi della sponda sud ed est del Mediterraneo) è anche il nostro. In un contesto di business, la sicurezza è un elemento essenziale".

Sull'importanza politica ed economica del Mediterraneo per l'Italia sono intervenuti il sotto segretario allo Sviluppo Economico, Ivan Scalfarotto, e il presidente di ICE, Michele Scarnavini.

"Il Mediterraneo è una zona strategica legata al destino dell'Italia. Non c'è Italia senza Mediterraneo e non c'è Mediterraneo senza l'Italia" ha detto Scalfarotto.

Scarnavini di ICE, invece, ha ribadito come con migliaia di aziende presenti, l'Italia sia uno dei principali attori economici di una regione che, nonostante le crisi, "crescerà di oltre il 3% fino al 2020" e "rappresenta oggi il quarto mercato per l'export italiano".

A tirare le somme del dibattito ci ha pensato Paolo Magri, presidente di ISPI, il quale si è chiesto "quale senso ha con tutti i subbugli in corso nel Mediterraneo, tanto nella sponda sud quanto in quella nord con un'Europa che perde pezzi e identità, parlare di business? In realtà ha molto senso, perché pace e sviluppo sono legati".

ROMA, 2 DICEMBRE – L'Italia non solo è geograficamente al centro del Mediterraneo ma si candida a diventare un 'hub' permanente di discussione e riflessione sui temi specifici dell'area e sulle strategie da adottare per affrontarne le problematiche.

'pilastri': Shared Prosperity; Shared Security; Migration; Media; Culture & Society e si occupa di temi come sicurezza comune, lotta al terrorismo, futuro del Medio Oriente – con un focus particolare su Sina e Libia – immigrazione, energia, crescita, ruolo delle donne e dei giovani per il rilancio dell'economia.

Nelle intenzioni della Farnesina "la tre giorni di dibattito è destinata a far diventare Roma un vero e proprio hub di riflessione sul Mediterraneo: area non solo di conflitti e crisi, ma spazio ricco di potenzialità sulle quali lavorare nella costruzione di un'agenda positiva che si lasci dietro alle spalle un diffuso pessimismo e torni a ridare centralità alla regione in uno scenario internazionale in continuo mutamento.

A rafforzare l'idea di hub contribuiscono una serie di incontri denominati Pre-Med che si sono tenuti il 30 novembre e ieri mattina e la partnership scientifica di European University Institute, Ifri, Bruegel, Chatam House, DGAP, European Council on Foreign Relations. Tra queste tavole rotonde si segnalano quella con imprenditori delle due sponde del Mediterraneo (promosso da Confindustria-BusinessMed), la riunione dell'Aspen European Strategy Group, incontri tra planner dei Ministeri degli esteri dell'area, un confronto tra i media internazionali promosso con la RAI e uno tra i rappresentanti dei think tank dell'area e lo Steering Committee del Robert F. Kennedy Human Rights Center.

Ieri Gentiloni, a margine della Conferenza, ha incontrato il collega britannico Boris Johnson. Oltre alle prospettive legate al negoziato per l'uscita del Regno Unito dall'Unione Europea, i due Ministri hanno scambiato aggiornate valutazioni sulla crisi libica, nelle sue dimensioni politica, economica, di sicurezza e umanitaria, e sulla Siria. Oggetto dei colloqui anche i rapporti con la Russia, in relazione al ruolo di Mosca nella crisi siriana, e il Processo dei Balcani Occidentali.

Nel pomeriggio, apendo i lavori del Forum, il ministro Paolo Gentiloni ha detto che occorre "prendere l'impegno tutti insieme ad evitare che il Mediterraneo, il Mare nostrum, diventi il Mare nullus, cioè un luogo in cui nessuno si assume la responsabilità o la corresponsabilità di fronte alle crisi. La responsabilità di contenere le crisi, di sviluppare un'agenda positiva è comune a tutti i Paesi della regione, ai Paesi europei e a tutti i Paesi del mondo".

LA RISPOSTA UFFICIALE INTERNAZIONALE 2016

Boccia: «Milano modello per il Paese»

Referendum: Boccia, strumentalizzazioni eccessive, no a speculazioni

«Mi sembra ci siano strumentalizzazioni internazionali eccessive, se dovesse vincere il no. Non vorrei che qualcuno stesse speculando a danno dell'Italia» ha poi aggiunto il presidente di Confindustria allontanando il rischio di conseguenze gravi sull'economia nell'eventualità che vinca il No. «Non vedo alcun collegamento» ha commentato a proposito del rischio fallimento per alcune banche pionieristiche del Financial Times. «Forse qualcuno - ha detto Boccia - vuole speculare sul Paese e comprare i gioielli di famiglia a basso costo, c'è un'altra questione e credo che si debba avere la lucidità del capire».

Noi ha aggiunto sabbiamo sempre sottolineato l'importanza di stare sugli argomenti e sui contenuti», dice Boccia. «Riconfermiamo le nostre ragioni sui contenuti: riteniamo che il si sia una buona occasione per rendere più moderna ed efficiente il nostro Paese».

Mediterraneo: Babani, imprenditori primi incubatori

Nell'area del Mediterraneo «gli imprenditori sono i primi incubatori della stabilità» in quanto «non esiste stabilità senza sviluppo economico» ha sottolineato Alberto Babani, vice presidente di Confindustria e di BusinessMed, nel suo intervento al Forum Euro-Mediterraneo. «Non c'è paura il rischio politico ma il terrorismo a frenare maggiormente le imprese», ha affermato Babani, «anche se non tocca agli imprenditori farci carico dei compiti della politica, proprio lo sviluppo delle economie nazionali sarebbe la miglior risposta ad alcune esigenze comuni e trasversali della maggior parte dei paesi sud-mediterranei», ha aggiunto Babani, riferendosi anche all'eccesso di iniziative lasciate dai paesi europei alla Cina nell'area Emea.

Mediterranean Dialogues: Rome is the hub for reviewing strategies

The second edition of the MED (Mediterranean Dialogues) Forum, organised by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation and ISPI (Institute for International Political Studies), will be held in Rome from today, 1 December, to Saturday, 3 December. It will count on the presence of more than 40 heads of State, ministers and top officials of International Organisations, and 600 leading figures from the world of politics, finance and the economy, 80 representatives of think tanks and international institutions, and scholars and experts from approximately 55 Countries, thus proving the extent to which this project is shared and supported worldwide.

On Thursday, 1 December, the Forum will be opened at 2 p.m. by Minister Paolo Gentiloni. Again on 1 December, the participants in the Forum will be received by the President of the Italian Republic Sergio Mattarella. Participation to the event is exclusively upon invitation.

The Forum is entirely open to the press (see attached programme) and is divided into three day sessions on the so-called four "pillars": Shared Prosperity; Shared Security; Migration; Media; Culture & Society.

Participants also include John KERRY, Secretary of State, United States of America; Sergey LAVROV, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Russia; Boris JOHNSON, Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, United Kingdom; Federica MOGHERINI, High Representative of the European Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy; Mohammad Javad ZARIF, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Iran; Mohammed AL-THANI, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Qatar; Giorgio Napolitano, Honorary President of ISPI; Staffan DE MISTURA, UN Special Envoy for Syria; Frans TIMMERMANS, First Vice-President of the European Commission; Ibrahim Abdul-Kareem Hamza Al-Estrakier AL-JAAFARI, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Iraq; Ahmed ABOUL-GHEIT, Secretary General of the Arab League; Roberta PINOTTI, Minister of Defence of Italy; Edi RAMA, Prime Minister of Albania; Filippo GRANDI, United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees; Ibrahim GHANDOUR, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Sudan; Claudio DESCALZI, CEO of ENI; Mauro MORETTI, CEO of Leonardo Finmeccanica SpA; Emma MARCEGAGLIA, President of BusinessEurope.

Shared security, fighting terrorism, the future of the Middle East – with a special focus on Syria and Libya – immigration, energy, growth, and the role of women and youth in relaunching the economy are some of the key issues addressed by the three-day event that will turn Rome and this important Forum into a full-fledged "hub" of debate on the Mediterranean. The Mediterranean is not only an area of conflict and crisis but a space with great potential to be exploited in developing a positive agenda that might leave behind widespread pessimism and restore the region's centrality in a continuously changing international scenario.

The idea of Hub was reinforced by a round of meetings called "Pre-Med", which were held from 30 November to the morning of 1 December. In addition to the scientific partnership between the European University Institute, Ifri, Bruegel, Chatam House, DGAP and the European Council on Foreign Relations. The round of meetings included a meeting of entrepreneurs from the two shores of the Mediterranean (promoted by Confindustria-BusinessMed); a meeting of the Aspen European Strategy Group; meetings between Mediterranean Energy Regulators and between security experts and representatives of the NATO Defence College; a ministerial meeting on energy promoted by the European Commission and a meeting between the policy planners of the Foreign Ministries of the area; a meeting between international media, promoted by RAI in partnership with one of the representatives of the Think Tanks in the area and the Steering Committee of the Robert F. Kennedy Human Rights Center.

Dialoghi Mediterranei: è Roma l'hub per una nuova riflessione strategica

Data: 01/12/2016

Si è chiusa oggi a Roma la seconda edizione del Forum MED – Mediterranean Dialogues, promosso dal Ministero degli Affari Esteri e della Cooperazione Internazionale e dall'ISPI (Istituto per gli Studi di Politica Internazionale).

Sicurezza comune, lotta al terrorismo, il futuro del Medio Oriente, con un focus particolare su Siria e Libia, immigrazione, energia, crescita, ruolo delle donne e dei giovani per il rilancio dell'economia sono alcuni dei temi chiave della tre giorni di dibattito che ha fatto di Roma - e questo importante incontro - un vero e proprio "hub" di riflessione strategica sul Mediterraneo: area non solo di conflitti e crisi, ma spazio ricco di potenzialità, sulle quali lavorare nella costruzione di un'agenda positiva, che si lasci dietro alle spalle un diffuso pessimismo e torni a ridare centralità alla regione in uno scenario internazionale in continuo mutamento.

Oltre 40 tra Capi di Stato, Ministri e vertici delle Organizzazioni Internazionali e 500 leader del mondo della politica, dell'economia e della finanza, 80 tra think tank e istituzioni internazionali nonché studiosi ed esperti provenienti da circa 55 Paesi: una partecipazione massiccia, che ha dato la misura di un progetto forte, condiviso e sostenuto a livello internazionale.

Sono intervenuti al Forum MED - Mediterranean Dialogues: John KERRY, Secretary of State, United States of America; Sergey LAVROV, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Russia; Boris JOHNSON, Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, United Kingdom; Federica MOGHERINI, High Representative of the European Union for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy; Mohammad Javad ZARIF, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Iran; Mohammed AL-THANI, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Qatar; Giorgio Napolitano, Presidente Onorario ISPI; Staffan DE MISTURA, UN Special Envoy for Syria; Frans TIMMERMANS, First Vice-President of the European Commission; Ibrahim Abdul-Kareem Hamza Al-Eshakier AL-JAAFARI, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Iraq; Ahmed ABOUJ-GHEIT, Secretary General of the Arab League; Roberta PINOTTI, Minister of Defence, Italy; Edi RAMA, Prime Minister, Albania; Filippo GRANDI, United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees; Ibrahim GHANDOUR, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Sudan; Claudio DESCALZI, CEO, ENI; Mauro MORETTI, CEO, Leonardo Finmeccanica Spa; Emma MARCEGAGLIA, President, BusinessEurope.

A rafforzare l'idea di hub hanno contribuito una serie di incontri denominati Pre-Med, che si sono tenuti il 30 novembre e l'1 dicembre mattina, e la partnership scientifica di European University Institute, IFRI, Bruegel, Chatam House, DGAP, European Council on Foreign Relations. Importanti le tavole rotonde con imprenditori delle due sponde del Mediterraneo (promosso da Confindustria-BusinessMed), la riunione dell'Aspen European Strategy Group, incontri tra Mediterranean Energy Regulators e tra esperti di sicurezza col NATO Defence College; la ministeriale sull'energia promossa con la Commissione Europea e una riunione tra i policy planner dei Ministeri degli esteri dell'area; un confronto tra i media internazionali promosso con la RAI e uno tra i rappresentanti dei Think Tank dell'area e lo Steering Committee del Robert F. Kennedy Human Rights Center.

CONTRADDIZIONI MEDITERRANEE

Mediterraneo in subbuglio. Ma anche protagonista economico e politico e area di sviluppo per le imprese italiane. È tra queste due contraddizioni che si è sviluppata la riflessione che dal 30 novembre al 3 dicembre 2016 a Roma ha riposizionato il Mediterraneo quale grande protagonista del dibattito internazionale.

Mediterraneo in subbuglio. Ma anche protagonista economico e politico e area di sviluppo per le imprese italiane. È tra queste due contraddizioni che si è sviluppata la riflessione che dal 30 novembre al 3 dicembre 2016 a Roma ha riposizionato il Mediterraneo quale grande protagonista del dibattito internazionale. Se da un lato il Mediterraneo è tuttora agitato da venti di instabilità politica, al contrario la business community mediterranea è pienamente consapevole del ruolo di stabilizzazione indotto dalla crescita economica derivante dall'attività di impresa.

E quanto emerso nel corso del Forum Euromediterraneo organizzato da Confindustria in collaborazione con BUSINESSMED, l'Associazione delle "Confindustrie" mediterranee, Ministero dello Sviluppo Economico, Ministero degli Affari Esteri e della Cooperazione Internazionale e ICE-Agenzia svoltosi a Roma il 30 novembre 2016.

"Non è il cambiamento che crea instabilità bensì la nostra incapacità di comprendere il cambiamento. Ma un'Europa che non riesce a crescere ha difficoltà a comprendere la crescita, mentre il continente africano ne ha invece consapevolezza. Al contrario dell'Europa, la Business community ha chiaro il concetto che la stabilità sociale parte dallo sviluppo economico" ha sottolineato Alberto Babari, Presidente della Piccola Industria di Confindustria e Vice Presidente di Businessmed.

Un Mediterraneo su cui lavorare per costruire un'agenda positiva al centro anche della seconda edizione di MED-Mediterranean Dialogues, promosso sempre a Roma dal 1° al 3 dicembre dal Ministero degli Affari Esteri e della Cooperazione Internazionale e dall'ISP.

Prosperità condivisa, Sicurezza condivisa. Migrazioni e società civile e Cultura sono i quattro pilastri del confronto tra oltre 500 leader del mondo della politica, dell'economia e della finanza.

SAÏDA NEGHZA, PRÉSIDENTE DE LA CGEA ET VICE-PRÉSIDENTE DE BUSINESSMED, À L'EXPRESSION

"L'Afrique doit être notre cible de choix"

Par Amar INGRACHEN - Jeudi 24 Novembre 2016 00:00

Taille du texte: + -

Dans cette interview, Saida Neghza revient sur l'insertion de l'économie algérienne dans l'économie mondiale et la meilleure manière de mener l'entreprise, ainsi que sur le Forum d'affaires et d'investissement africain qui se tient à Alger du 3 au 4 décembre prochain.

L'Expression: L'Algérie organise des Forums d'affaires bilatéraux avec plusieurs pays (Indonésie, Iran, Emirats, Grande-Bretagne, USA, etc.). Etre sur tous les fronts, est-ce une bonne idée selon vous?

Saida Neghza: Il est normal et logique que l'Algérie puisse fructifier à travers ses relations avec tous les pays, les potentialités de coopération économique Néanmoins, le continent africain dans lequel elle se situe, doit représenter une cible de choix pour l'Algérie, d'autant plus que elle y est déjà fortement présente politiquement. En effet, le combat de l'Algérie pour la libération des pays africains colonisés a placé notre pays dans une position de leader au niveau du continent noir. Ceci peut se reproduire dans l'économie et permettre de développer une coopération privilégiée avec les pays africains.

Tous ces forums visent, principalement, à attirer les investissements étrangers vers l'Algérie. Est-ce que les rencontres entre les opérateurs économiques à l'occasion de ces forums sont suffisantes pour convaincre ces derniers de s'installer en Algérie ou il convient d'aller plus loin?

D'abord et, en général, les relations économiques revêtent soit des échanges commerciaux bilatéraux ou des investissements engageant trois acteurs dont un représentant d'un pays non africain dans le cadre d'un partenariat. De ce point de vue, il est clair que les forums constituent un lieu ideal pour permettre aux acteurs économiques d'apprecier directement, avec leurs homologues, les conditions de coopération qui leur sont offertes. C'est essentiellement, de mon point de vue, sur ces conditions qu'il faut agir pour les améliorer. Il est urgent que l'Algérie se mette au diapason de l'économie mondiale.

L'Algérie s'apprête à abriter le premier sommet d'affaires africain après avoir tourné le dos durant longtemps à l'Afrique. Qu'attendez-vous concrètement de ce forum?

Il était temps de retourner vers l'Afrique qui, il faut le rappeler, constitue la locomotive de la croissance mondiale en ce moment et pour les années à venir. Il est normal et légitime que l'Algérie, qui est un pays africain, saisisse les opportunités qu'offre le continent. Pour ce qui est du forum qui se tiendra du 3 au 5 décembre à Alger, nous aurons aimé que notre Confédération soit partie prenante dans le cadre du comité d'organisation afin d'apporter non seulement toute son expérience du fait qu'elle a présidé l'organisation africaine du patronat pendant deux mandats de deux ans consécutifs, mais aussi pour permettre au comité d'organisation d'être plus représentatif du patronat algérien. Une démarche inclusive aurait conféré davantage de légitimité et de prestige à cette rencontre. Ceci dit, nous souhaitons que cette rencontre algéro-africaine puisse aboutir à des résultats satisfaisants.

Quels sont les pays africains avec lesquels l'Algérie gagnerait particulièrement à coopérer?

La Cgéo estime que le Nigeria et l'Afrique du Sud constituent deux pays majeurs avec lesquels il y a lieu de consolider fortement nos relations économiques et créer une dynamique de coopération forte capable de constituer le fer de lance d'une démarche plus globale qui toucherait l'ensemble des pays émergents africains. Il est important d'avoir des repères qualitatifs en matière d'investissement en Afrique.

En votre qualité de présidente de la Cgéo, organisation très présente à l'échelle africaine et internationale, et vice-présidente de Businessmed, que pouvez-vous apporter au gouvernement dans sa stratégie de retour vers l'Afrique?

Je tiens à vous remercier d'avoir posé cette question car l'activité d'une organisation patronale ne se limite pas à la sphère algérienne pour soutenir l'action politique du gouvernement pour le développement économique et social. Notre action s'insère dans une dynamique globale qui inclut tous les acteurs économiques mondiaux, notamment les organisations patronales africaines, méditerranéennes, internationales, etc., ainsi que le Bureau international du travail et l'Organisation internationale des employeurs. Nous faisons un travail de diplomatie économique en faveur de notre pays et, plus particulièrement des chets d'entreprise algériens, en parfaite symbiose avec les politiques économiques mises en place par le gouvernement. Notre travail, en somme, vient compléter celui du gouvernement et nos objectifs sont les mêmes que ceux du gouvernement: diversifier, développer notre économie.

FORUM EURO MEDITERRANEO DI CONFINDUSTRIA

Stampa | Email

ROMA - L'industria italiana guarda al Mediterraneo come «terra di cerniera», occasione di «un processo straordinario di integrazione sociale ed economica», puntando su un «partenariato per il cosviluppo». Così il leader di Confindustria, Vincenzo Bocca, ha presentato ieri a Roma il Forum Euro-Mediterraneo, organizzato da Confindustria in collaborazione con BusinessMed (l'associazione delle "Confindustrie" dell'area del Mediterraneo), i ministeri dello Sviluppo economico degli esteri, e l'Ioe.

L'appuntamento ha rappresentato anche l'occasione per oltre 300 incontri b2b, direttamente tra aziende, con la presenza di 145 aziende italiane e 168 aziende dei Paesi della sponda sud del Mediterraneo, otto associazioni imprenditoriali, tre banche, complessivamente 470 partecipanti. Lo sviluppo economico della "sponda sud" è «una priorità anche per l'Italia»; l'intercambio è aumentato del 64% tra il 2001 ed il 2015, incide per l'8% sui nostri scambi con un valore di 66,5 miliardi nel 2015 che potrebbero salire a oltre 68 nel 2018. E con una presenza industriale di circa 3mila aziende italiane.

Quello di ieri a Roma è stato il terzo grande evento degli industriali sul Mediterraneo, dopo il Forum di Palermo del 2006 e quello di Roma del 2010. Ed è stato organizzato con uno speciale focus sul settore dell'energia. «L'impegno di molti Governi della sponda sud a promuovere riforme strutturali e progetti di investimento in settori industriali prioritari rappresenta una occasione unica per le nostre imprese», ha sottolineato Bocca.

La «crescita», ha detto il leader degli industriali, è «una precondizione per combattere diseguaglianza e povertà. Contro il terrorismo e la violenza non c'è migliore arma della cooperazione economica e industriale. Siamo convinti che il sistema industriale italiano possa giocare un ruolo chiave nel mediterraneo, oggi come non mai. Le straordinarie capacità dei nostri imprenditori possono essere uno strumento di stabilizzazione e di integrazione poiché generano crescita, ricchezza, benessere». Secondo il presidente di Confindustria «attuare una politica di cooperazione EuroMediterranea strutturata sarà un processo lungo e non semplice ma non abbiamo scelta poiché la futura sicurezza dell'intera regione dipende soprattutto da uno sviluppo florido delle economie di mercato». Imprenditori italiani e imprenditori della sponda sud del Mediterraneo devono oggi cogliere l'opportunità di «agire in nome di un comune interesse strategico di sicurezza e sviluppo». Anche per il presidente della Piccola industria di Confindustria, vice presidente di BusinessMed, Alberto Baban, «gli imprenditori sono i primi incubatori della stabilità». «Oggi non è più il rischio politico quanto piuttosto quello del terrorismo a frenare maggiormente le imprese. Anche se non tocca agli imprenditori farsi carico dei compiti della politica - ha detto - proprio lo sviluppo delle economie nazionali sarebbe la miglior risposta ad alcune esigenze comuni e trasversali della maggior parte dei Paesi sud-mediterranei».

«Nonostante le difficoltà dell'attuale scenario internazionale, la partnership euro-mediterranea si conferma una piattaforma imprescindibile di cooperazione economica, in cui l'Italia è coinvolta in prima linea», ha sottolineato nel suo intervento il presidente della Sace, Beniamino Quintieri. Sace e Simest (gruppo Cassa Depositi e Prestiti) «lavoreranno sempre più in sinergia per sostenere le imprese italiane in quest'area a elevato potenziale e in profonda evoluzione».

Eurochambers, the leading player in of the European Entrepreneurial community, was represented by Dirk Vantvahem, Director of Operations, Ines Briad, coordinating the Presentations, Sophia Economacos, the President of the Eurochambers Women Network and many women representatives of local European Chambers.

The participants exchanged ideas and best practices that could be adopted by each other and would help in the promotion of local enterprises.

Sophia Economacos, who represented Eurochambers, as well as the Greek National Chamber Network, focused her presentation on the organization of clusters and cooperatives, projects they are now attempting to organize in Greece to fight unemployment. Anna Benito representing the Chamber of Valencia presented the info centers they have organized within the Spanish Chambers in order to fight unemployment.

All the speeches were exceptional and well-presented. They provided tools and information for the development of entrepreneurship in the area. Best of all was the opportunity the conference gave for the participants to network and exchange real-life experiences. Some participants also had the chance to promote their work and products and find business partners among others attending the conference.

I must point out that the most successful aspects of the European conferences and the projects they represent are the opportunities they provide to exchange cultural knowledge and abilities, to bring people together, and shrink geographical distances, to add a new dimension to previously accepted economic, professional and entrepreneurial practices and give people the chance to create a better world; one which is more productive, more civilized and friendlier, and which is ready to meet the demands and fulfill the expectations of our time.

EUROMED Invest Academy is a training and exchange of best practices workshop for BSOs aiming at maximizing the exchange and improving the quality of services provided to SMEs in the Mediterranean region. It is an excellent opportunity for BSOs to improve their overall capacity as well as the services provided to members.

During one day and a half, this training gathered more than 85 representatives of BSOs from the Meda region, entrepreneurs, and several stakeholders from the private sector in order to discuss the role of women in the economic and social development of their own countries. This academy was also the opportunity to share best practices in various BSOs about women entrepreneurs and services provided by BSOs.

The participants had the opportunity to share experiences and best practices thanks to the precious support of Euro-Mediterranean BSO's on issues dealing with women leadership empowerment and services offered by the Business Support Organisations.

The meeting, held on the sidelines of the International Women's Day, provided an opportunity to take stock of the progress made in achieving gender equality and empowering women in development programs at the regional and national level.

BUSINESSMED sottoscrive la Carta di NAPOLI

Napoli | Tunisi, 06/02/2017

Promuovere i temi della Responsabilità Sociale e della Sostenibilità a beneficio delle imprese e dei protagonisti dello sviluppo economico del Mediterraneo, diffondendo e mettendo a patrimonio comune le buone prassi realizzate, con particolare riferimento ai 17 obiettivi di sviluppo sostenibile (SDGs) promossi dalle Nazioni Unite per l'Agenda 2030, nella tutela dei diritti umani e dell'ambiente, tra i principali obiettivi alla base del protocollo d'intesa siglato tra l'Associazione Spazio alla Responsabilità e BUSINESSMED che, con la sottoscrizione della Carta di Napoli, aderisce al Forum Permanente della Responsabilità Sociale nel Mediterraneo (CSRMed Forum).

L'Unione delle Confederazioni d'Impresa del Mediterraneo (BUSINESSMED) è la più importante rappresentanza del settore privato, con 22 confederazioni di imprese, attiva nella regione Euro-Mediterranea. Da oltre 10 anni, l'organizzazione rappresenta una piattaforma chiave per la cooperazione multilaterale dedicata ai suoi confederati, un promotore di investimenti diretti esteri, una leva per il dialogo mediterraneo e l'integrazione socio-economica.

"La Responsabilità Sociale, d'Impresa e Condivisa, rientra da sempre e a pieno titolo tra i principi fondamentali dell'approccio programmatico e valoriale di BUSINESSMED - dichiara Jihen Boutiba Mrad, Segretario Generale di BUSINESSMED. Union of Mediterranean Confederations of Enterprises, che dal 2015 ha aderito ai dieci principi del Global Compact, un'iniziativa delle Nazioni Unite nata per incoraggiare aziende e organismi di tutto il mondo ad adottare politiche sostenibili e nel rispetto della responsabilità sociale d'impresa. In tal senso, l'adesione al Forum Permanente della Responsabilità Sociale nel Mediterraneo - ha poi aggiunto il SG BUSINESSMED - rappresenta una naturale e concreta opportunità di scambio proattivo su tematiche che ritengiamo centrali per una reale crescita sostenibile, competitiva ed inclusiva dei nostri paesi. La nostra organizzazione è infatti costantemente impegnata in progetti stabili e iniziative ad hoc con l'obiettivo di favorire e promuovere l'adozione di strategie economiche positive in grado di accelerare l'integrazione e lo sviluppo economico e sociale del Bacino Mediterraneo".

"La partnership con BUSINESSMED è un tassello di fondamentale importanza- afferma Raffaella Papa, Presidente di Spazio alla Responsabilità - e dà ulteriore forza al piano d'azione per promuovere la Responsabilità Sociale attraverso un tavolo permanente di lavoro, multistakeholder e multidisciplinare, quale piattaforma di scambio, promozione e programmazione per affrontare le sfide legate allo sviluppo sostenibile nell'area mediterranea. Abbiamo avuto il Segretario Generale Jihen Bouliba Mrad ospite e prezioso relatore al Salone MedRSC lo scorso anno, tra le importanti presenze al lancio del CSRMed Forum, e siamo orgogliosi di poter oggi, con un'intesa formale oltre che sostanziale, proseguire la collaborazione avviata, mettendo a sistema le reciproche esperienze e buone prassi e sviluppando progettualità condivise. Tra le prime attività che portremo avanti con BUSINESSMED, la conferenza internazionale di apertura del 5° Salone MedRSC (in programma a Napoli dal 15 al 17 giugno 2017) dedicata alla presentazione dei 17 SDGs ed alle iniziative e buone prassi messe in campo da organizzazioni pubbliche e private, profit e no profit attive nell'area euro-mediterranea, con particolare riferimento ai SDGs 4-8-9-17 (Educazione di qualità - Lavoro dignitoso e Crescita economica sostenibile e inclusiva – Innovazione e Infrastrutture – Partenariati collaborativi)".

« Le déficit de main-d'œuvre au nord de la Méditerranée sera de 40 millions en 2030 » (Jihen Boutiba Mrad)

La Secrétaire générale de BUSINESSMED (Union méditerranéenne des confédérations d'entreprises) estime que pour pallier l'instabilité à laquelle font face les pays du pourtour méditerranéen, il est impératif d'aller vers une intégration de cette zone et de converger vers des solutions complémentaires, le Sud comme le Nord de la Méditerranée ayant chacun profit à tirer de l'autre.

L'intégration économique interméditerranéenne figure parmi vos projets à moyen et long terme. Qu'est-ce qu'une telle perspective peut apporter aux pays de la région, notamment ceux du Sud ?

L'objectif ultime de BUSINESSMED est de réaliser l'intégration économique régionale qui consiste en l'abolition des entraves au libre échange entre les pays euro-méditerranéens, l'unification des politiques économiques des pays Méditerranéens d'une part, et la promotion de l'investissement intermédiaire et l'échange du savoir-faire et des compétences sur un plan intra-régional, d'autre part. Dans une optique d'intégration économique, les pays du Sud tout comme les pays du Nord doivent promouvoir la diversité méditerranéenne et les ressources disponibles dans la région. Les pays du sud de la Méditerranée bénéficient d'une telle optique notamment pour se rattraper et limiter l'écart de développement par rapport aux pays du nord et de répliquer les bonnes pratiques issues du Nord.

Treize années après la création de BUSINESSMED, quel bilan faites-vous de ses activités en matière de promotion du dialogue et de l'intégration socio-économique interméditerranéenne ? Cette perspective représente-t-elle un enjeu pertinent pour tous les pays de la région ?

Depuis sa création en 2002, BUSINESSMED a vécu une croissance exponentielle qui lui a permis d'acquérir une certaine notoriété auprès des principaux acteurs économiques de la région euro-méditerranéenne (représentants du secteur privé, ONG, gouvernements, etc.). Le développement de l'organisation durant 15 années d'activité se manifeste par sa représentativité significative dans la région grâce à l'intégration de 22 confédérations et plus de 600 entreprises affiliées issues de 19 pays de la rive Sud et Nord de la Méditerranée. En collaboration avec nos membres et partenaires, nous avons organisé plusieurs manifestations de grande envergure, à savoir les journées de compétitivité de BUSINESSMED, Forum Économique Méditerranéen « Crossing Mare Nostrum » en Italie (2006), MediEspaña en Espagne (2007), Med Business Days en France (2008), Forum d'Affaires d'Athènes « Bridging the Mediterranean » en Grèce (2009), Forum MEDINVEST au Liban (2009), MEDA WOMEN à Tunis (2010) et le Forum Euro-Méditerranée en Italie (2016). En outre, nous avons géré une panoplie de projets régionaux ayant pour vocation le renforcement du rôle des organisations patronales dans la promotion du commerce et de l'investissement (UNIMED) et l'amélioration du climat d'affaires (Invest in MED). BUSINESSMED est actuellement membre de plusieurs consortiums dans une optique de co-construction de projets : EUROMED Invest, un projet dédié au développement des investissements privés et des relations économiques dans la zone euro-méditerranéenne ; le projet EDIE ayant pour vocation le renforcement du développement économique local ; le projet HOMERIC visant à renforcer l'employabilité des jeunes de haut niveau ; le projet SCUD visant à la promotion du dialogue social dans le voisinage sud de la Méditerranée. Le réseau de BUSINESSMED est impliqué dans ses différentes initiatives. Certaines activités et projets ont pour vocation le développement du réseau entre les pays euro-méditerranéens, d'autres ont plutôt un focus sur les pays de voisinage sud de la Méditerranée tel que le projet SOLID. La prise de conscience de la nécessité d'intégration régionale pour certains pays a été marquée suite à la crise mondiale de 2008 et le printemps arabe qui a remis en cause le modèle économique existant.

Vraisemblablement, l'impact de vos actions n'est pas le même dans tous les pays, les politiques des gouvernements et les volontés des opérateurs économiques des pays membres n'étant pas les mêmes. Quels sont les principaux obstacles que vos rencontrez ? Et quels sont vos défis à court, à moyen et à long termes sachant que, à l'heure actuelle, les échanges intermédiaires restent très disproportionnés ?

Étant donné que plusieurs projets et manifestations sont réalisés en partenariat avec certaines confédérations membres, l'impact de nos activités s'étend à tout les pays partenaires. A travers ses opérations, BUSINESSMED implique tout son réseau encourageant ainsi l'effet de synergie afin de garantir une meilleure intégration régionale. Notre défi à moyen et long terme est le développement économique inclusif des confédérations membres qui ont des préoccupations souvent divergentes compte tenu des considérations nationales. L'enjeu majeur réside dans la garantie de la complémentarité des deux rives de la Méditerranée sur divers plans à savoir : Favoriser la mobilité inter-méditerranéenne, notamment Sud-Nord, afin de combler le déficit de main-d'œuvre au nord de la Méditerranée estimé à 40 millions en 2030 d'une part, et la réduction substantielle des taux de chômage dans les pays du sud de la Méditerranée compte tenu des taux de création d'emploi (2 % insuffisant en 2030) d'autre part. Il s'agit aussi de valoriser les avantages comparatifs entre les pays riverains : pays du nord procurant des services à haute valeur ajoutée et des pays du sud spécialisés dans les services supports (tourisme, transport, télécommunications, etc.). Il est, par ailleurs, question de capitaliser sur les ressources naturelles et énergétiques disponibles dans la région comme les dotations des uns répondent aux besoins des autres comme, par exemple, l'abondance des ressources renouvelables des pays sud, et les ressources en eau au nord de la Méditerranée.

12 Fórum Futurália

NOTAS FINAIS

André Magrinho

Adjunto do Presidente da Fundação AIP

No âmbito do Fórum Futurália 2020 – que contou com a participação de várias intervenientes de múltiplas áreas, setores e contextos – e do conjunto de workshops estruturados que o integraram, debateu-se o tema “Aprender, trabalhar e competir no contexto futuro da Indústria 4.0”. Da debate promoveram as seguintes conclusões:

O Fórum Futurália 2020, promovido pelo projeto SOLID e pelo Fórum AIP, através da iniciativa Futurália, teve por tema genérico a “Indústria 4.0: aprender, trabalhar e competir”, tendo sido desenvolvido em torno de um sistema de três subtopos temáticos: tecnologia, trabalho e economia, respectivamente, envolvendo os diferentes partidos interessados, que parte das atuais do diálogo social (representados sindicatos, patronato e governo), por se considerar a sua capacidade de influenciar as políticas públicas de educação, formação, trabalho e juventude, e, face assim, as estratégias e orientações apresentadas.

Na Fórum Futurália 2020, na noite de 23 de Março de 2017, foi feita a abordagem da Indústria 4.0, mais de que na tecnologia (priorizando sobre o risco de ficarmos tecnológicos), centrando-nos nas implicações económicas e sociais, que decorrem das funções de referência da support, baseado num panorama de tecnologias e na forma de fábrica cada vez mais integrada. Sofreteram, preparamo-nos os debates que se colocaram um nível de qualificação (sistemas de educação e formação, emprego e juventude). As discussões foram particularmente orientadas para as dimensões e oportunidades da Indústria 4.0, e que remete para os estudos dos diferentes níveis, nomeadamente estratégias cooperativas a nível europeu, nacional e internacional. Na conceção era evidenciada a importância, interdisciplinar, da tecnologia e da cooperação.

No plano estratégico e operacional, considerou-se que a Indústria 4.0 é portadora de um conjunto de desafios, interações e mudanças profissionais, que exigem uma reorganização da formação, da empregabilidade e da inserção social, em vista do fortalecimento integrado do princípio da tecnologia de suporte, onde o sistema ciberfísico e, particularmente, o Internet das Coisas (IdC) configura um novo paradigma técnico-económico, com implicações múltiplas para os vários agentes económicos e sociais. Sobre tudo, há apelo no desenvolvimento de algumas logica, que são as seguintes: (i) o cluster das Tecnologias & Internet, por via das suas aplicações em multiplicidade, configurando o principal dinamizador da nova cultura técnica e económica; (ii) a estratégia, no âmbito do clúster Manufatura e Nanotecnologia e Instrumentação/Micronavegação; (iii) o clúster associado às Tecnologias da Energia, where a sua importância na transição energética; (iv) o clúster associado às Tecnologias da Produção, onde se deve tentar a sua inserção na cadeia das novas formas de mobilidade urbana e novas tecnologias e tendo-se em vista (v) o clúster associado às Tecnologias da Mobilidade, que tem um papel importante a diferentes níveis, nomeadamente nas infraestruturas para us desigualdade social e à cooperação:

1. Desde logo, o conceito de Indústria 4.0, materializado numa paisagem de tecnologias que favorece a ligação da forma integrada, ligando o espaço virtual ao mundo físico, está, na verdade, em curso a um processo de profunda transformação do como pensamos, aprendemos, trabalhamos, produzimos, distribuímos e utilizamos os produtos e serviços, potenciadas pelo desenvolvimento e disponibilização, a priori cada vez mais complexa, de uma nova geração de tecnologias digitais.

2. A necessidade de uma nova agenda operativa para o diálogo social, capaz de modular os partidos interessados em termos de interesses económicos que remane em valorição do caráter de valor da economia subsistente a Indústria 4.0, enquanto motor de novo posicionamento (ver ver) para as instituições e empresas e diferentes agentes económicos, sociais e políticos.

A cooperação internacional, nomeadamente no quadro euro-mediterrânico, foi particularmente relevante, pelos partidários do SOLID e pelo seu envolvimento sindical e governamental, que consideram que o horizonte da Indústria 4.0 exige cooperação entre aspeços regionais e entre os economias das zonas, tendo em conta não só a logística das correntes de valor, mas também a estratégiade e o crescimento regional.

No plano estratégico e operacional, considerou-se que a Indústria 4.0 é portadora de um conjunto de desafios, interações e mudanças profissionais, que exigem uma reorganização da formação, da empregabilidade e da inserção social, em vista do fortalecimento integrado do princípio da tecnologia de suporte, onde o sistema ciberfísico e, particularmente, o Internet das Coisas (IdC) configura um novo paradigma técnico-económico, com implicações múltiplas para os vários agentes económicos e sociais. cidades inteligentes e nas inovações disruptivas que forem surgindo.

Em relação à problemática geral do emprego e da inserção profissional, particularmente da juventude e em termos de sistemas de educação e formação. Muitas são as desafios, as implicações e o impacto da tecnologia da Indústria 4.0, obligando a repensar a forma como o horizonte vai ser organizado e gerido. A longo prazo, as empresas com maior desempenho serão aqueles que se conseguem conectar ao sistema produtivo para a tecnologia de digitização do economia, com o crescimento das colaborações e a criação de novas estruturas e organizacionais fortes.

A nível das implicações em como constitui um desafio para se repensarem as estruturas organizacionais, a gestão do talento e as estratégias de recursos humanos. Há verdade, o gap a que se inicia entre o elevado nível de sofisticação tecnológica e os níveis de profissionalidade relativamente mais baixos constitui uma oportunidade para os recursos humanos, através de estratégias organizacionais e de desenvolvimento das pessoas, mediadas um alinhamento com o trabalho que desenvolvem.

A exploração, a flexibilidade e a colaboração são vistos como factores-chave de organização do futuro, cohesionando os líderes e gestores à prova, que são desafiados a reorganizar e a reformular o empresariado de redes de empresas, num contexto de automação crescente e de evolução de negócios digitais cada vez mais dinâmicos.

Em síntese, os sistemas de educação e formação têm hoje novos desafios e tem grande pressão exercida sobre a mesma, com a necessidade de transformar, modernizar e reinventar. São esses que pretendem fazer a experiência permanecer e profundamente entre os necessidades da economia e da sociedade e as novas realificações e competências, designadamente digitais, e com uma maior integração dos ecossistemas em que são geradas, em particular os sistemas empresariais.

KEY FINDINGS

André Magrinho

Assistant to the Chair of AIP Foundation

In the scope of the Fórum Futurália 2020 – which gathered participants from varied areas, sectors and backgrounds – and a set of workshops with the topic of “Learning, working and competing in Industry 4.0” was debated. The debate lead into the following conclusions:

The Fórum Futurália 2020, promoted by the SOLID project and by AIP Foundation, through the Futurália initiative, had the broad topic of “Industry 4.0: learning, working and competing”, it was structured around a system of 2 theme-based workshops (learning; working; and competing and competing), involving the different stakeholders, particularly the reports of the three-way social dialogue (trade unions, employers and government), to increase their ability to influence public policies on education, training, work and youth, as well as business guidelines and strategies, was taken into account.

In Fórum 2020 the nature and focus of the approach of Industry 4.0 focused essentially on the economic and social implications deriving from the functionalities of the support infrastructure - based on its all of technologies that operated in an increasingly integrated way - rather than on technology. The challenges raised in regards qualification (education and training), employment and youth were particularly mentioned. Thoughts were mostly directed to the challenges and opportunities of Industry 4.0, those that affect to the different players, particularly collaborative strategies on a domestic, European and international scale (Euro-Mediterranean cooperation among, mainly by the partners of the SOLID).

The following was highlighted as regards social dialogue and cooperation:

1. Firstly the concept of Industry 4.0, materialized in a series of technologies that operate in an integrated manner, connecting the virtual space to the physical world, is in fact a process of deep change in the way we think, learn, produce, produce, distribute and use goods and services, boosted by development and availability of a new generation of digital technologies of increasingly competitive prices.

2. The need of a new agenda for social dialogue, able to modulate the stakeholders several common interests who are reflected in the appreciation of the value chain of the economy based Industry 4.0, on a win-win situation for

“There are several challenges, implications and doubts on Industry 4.0 which make us rethink the way work will be organized and managed.”*

*The following was highlighted as regards social dialogue and cooperation:

As for the general issue of employment and qualification and other economic, social and political aspects, international cooperation, particularly in the Euro-Mediterranean framework, was highlighted mainly by the partners of the SOLID project and by Portuguese trade unions and employees representatives, who feel that the fight of Industry 4.0 requires cooperation between regions and economies of countries, taking into account the nature of «other» zones, as well as stability and regional cohesion.

In the strategic and operational levels, it was considered that Industry 4.0 holds a set of challenges, particularly in terms of changes, particularly in the field of education and training systems, labor market and youth, due to the integrated operation of the various support technologies, where the cyber-physical and the Internet of Things (IoT) in particular shape a new technological and economic paradigm, with multiple economic and social players. It appeals mostly to the development of some support clusters, with particular emphasis: (i) The cluster of Information & Communication technologies & Internet, by reason of its multiple uses, where the main driver of the new technical and economic system is found. However, this depends on the “Autonomous and Sustainable Energy Cluster” (Tecnoenergia/Autonomia e Sustentabilidade); (ii) The cluster related to Energy Technologies, given its importance in the energy transition; (iii) The cluster related to Manufacturing Technologies, where the introduction of the systems of new forms of mobility using new materials will be tested and which will involve innovation; (iv) The cluster related to mobility technologies, which has an important role of different levels, particularly in infrastructures for smart cities and disruptive innovation that occur over time.

The ongoing digital revolution is a challenge that requires rethinking organizational structures, talent management and strategies for human resources.”

Agility, flexibility and collaboration are required by key factors to organize the future and the needs and managers, who are challenged to reorganize and encourage the engagement of team networks within a context of growing automation and digital business models increasingly widespread.

In brief, education and training systems are faced nowadays with new challenges and high strain related to time and the way we learn, work and compete. These enable constantly and proactively reflecting the needs of the economy and society to new qualifications and skills, digital ones in particular, with increasing integration into the ecosystems in which they are generated, especially business systems.
